Memories

IT is with a heavy heart that I go about the preparations for this sale. As I sit at my desk now in meditative work on the catalog I can see from the windows of my office here at the farm, groups of Rosemere cattle which, after June 21st, will be gone, who knows where? At any rate, they will go from under my care and anxious supervision.

Somehow these cattle have grown to be almost a part of me, so closely have we been associated down through the years. I remember well how, under my mother's direction, I first started to work with them as a boy of twelve. Yes, and I think of all the subsequent years—years of labor, study and effort to make them better and how nobly they responded. I think of the days of restless energy which scarcely left time for sleep when I was preparing them for the shows or other important events. And how we travelled together up and down and across America so many times. How I would lie awake nights feverishly thinking of the next show as the fast exhibition specials with their swaying and lurching cars raced through the night. We made many, many shows together—some to the far corners of the continent—often we were successful and sometimes we lost. But win or lose, I never felt that the cattle let me down. They were troopers all—troopers of the tanbark.

I can see them now as they paraded through the show rings, just as plainly as though yesterday were today, but if I should need a fresh reminder I would have only to look at the young things about me at this time which so vividly portray the characteristics passed on to them by these early ancestors. To those old friends I cannot give too much credit. They were responsible, in a large measure, for the present high standard of excellence in Rosemere cattle. The great sires—Black Woodlawn, Glenfoil Thick Set 2d, Oakville Quiet Lad, Idolmere, Meraman of Tierra Alta, Prizemere 9th, Prizemere 32d, Blackmere 16th—all are gone now, but while they lived they blazed a path of glory for future generations of Rosemere cattle to follow. And I wish they might know that their descendants have upheld the high Rosemere tradition established by them.

Then I think again of some of the wonderful females which lent so much lustre to the early days of the herd. I remember how proudly I led some of them to victory in the International arena at Chicago and I wish they, too, could know that their names are written high today amongst the recorded triumphs of the breed. I seem to see them standing before me in all their superb beauty, feminine loveliness and every other appearance of high breeding—Eileen Lass, Glenfoil Queen 2d, Her Majesty 2d, Queen of Rosemere 5th, Barbara of Rosemere 33d, Barbara of Rosemere 40th, Barbara of Rosemere 64th, and others of the early celebrities of the herd. They, too, are gone, but once they trod the paths that led to fame and they left behind them a great heritage. Their sons and daughters have carried to still greater heights the glory of Rosemere.

So let me speak for a moment of some of these. After all, are they not just as dear to me? Who in recent years has not heard of the phenomenal Pride of Rosemere 67th, Junior and Reserve Grand Champion as a calf at the International of 1925, and Grand Champion at the same show as a yearling in 1926? She with her sisters, Pride of Rosemere 59th and Blackbird of Rosemere 56th, made up that famous trio of undefeated daughters of Prizemere 9th which, with Pride of Rosemere 67th's full brother, Prizemere 32d, won the first prize get of sire at Chicago and Philadelphia in 1926. And who will forget the triumphs of Barbarian of Rosemere 64th, Epponian 8th of Rosemere, and Blackcapmere 113th—champions all, and which bid fair to be champion sires as well? And the beautiful Barbara of Rosemere 100th, champion three years in succession at the American Royal and Grand Champion with her stablemate, Barbarian of Rosemere 64th, at the International of 1933. Or Blackcapmere 62d, the 1929 Reserve Junior Champion bull, and Pride of Rosemere 289th, the 1932 Junior Champion female. These and many, many others have been feted actors in the show rings of recent years and are living evidence of the unusual prepotency of the great animals that went before them in the herd.

And must I now say "good-bye" to them all? No!—better "au revoir", because I really do expect to see them again—if only in memory.

Otto V. Bailes

The Beginning of the Herd at Yakima

By WALTER B. CONGDON

AT Otto Battles' suggestion that it might be of some interest to Aberdeen-Angus breeders to learn something about the beginning of the Congdon & Battles Herd, the following brief account is given as an example of the appeal which the breed has for anyone who is interested in beef cattle, has no first hand knowledge of them, but is willing to investigate.

To begin with, it should be understood that my father, Chester A. Congdon, was responsible for the establishment of the herd in Yakima. His interest in the Yakima Valley began in 1888 when he was managing a syndicate formed to deal in lands along the line of the Northern Pacific Railroad, just then completed. Among other enterprises, this syndicate bought an area of sage brush land a few miles west of the present city of Yakima, and improved it. They subdivided the area into 10 to 20 acre tracts suitable for raising apples and pears, and constructed an irrigation canal, planted the tracts, or at least some of them, to trees and started to sell them off. It is beside the main point of this story, but it is nevertheless interesting to note that the canal company was organized on a basis which I am quite sure was unique at that time. Instead of having as its purpose the sale of irrigation water to the farmers, it was (and is) a mutual company with one share of stock for each irrigable acre, and the farmers own the canal—a share for an acre. The water appropriated from the river was sufficient so that the amount attributed to one share of stock is ample to irrigate one acre. I have been told that it is the only private irrigation canal company in the United States which has never been reorganized.

About 1904, when the syndicate's tracts were about all sold, my father could see his excuse for visiting Yakima disappearing. He had become very fond of the country, and he therefore bought the last few syndicate tracts, together with some other adjoining land and planted about 250 acres of fruit trees, which later grew to about 450 acres.

It was then the custom in the Valley while the trees were young, to grow other crops in the tree rows. There was a wholly fallacious theory that the land was so fertile that this double cropping would work no injury to the trees, as it would have to stop anyway in 10 or 15 years when the trees grew up. There was supposed to be such an ample supply of everything a plant needs except nitrogen that the trees would go right ahead and produce gigantic crops indefinitely, providing the nitrogen supply was kept up. Experience has since demonstrated that such is not the case and that consistent fertilization is as necessary in Yakima as in any other good farming locality. We never carried out the double cropping policy to the extent that most of our neighbors did; but to supply a cover crop and to add humus and nitrogen to the desert soil we raised alfalfa in the orchards for years, three cuttings a year. Two cuttings were made into hay, sometimes three, when the season was favorable, and the fourth crop grew tall enough to furnish sufficient green manure to disk in. Rather than sell off the hay my father concluded to feed it to steers and so get back some manure.

That is the way the cattle business started on our place. Common steers, very common, were plentiful; and they could eat as much feed as any "beef critters," but they were not pretty. After a year or two of steers my father concluded that he might as well get a few more pounds of beef per hundred pounds of feed, and looked about for some good grade cows to raise his own steers. At that time and, in fact, until the last few years in which the good hard licks put in by Otto Battles have begun to show results, about the only beef cattle you could buy in Washington were Shorthorns, that is, the only ones that amounted to anything. There were plenty of beef Jerseys, beef Holsteins, beef Brindles, etc. So we got some grade Shorthorn cows and a pure bred Shorthorn bull. Naturally enough, my father began to spare a little time from the orchard and watch the beef cattle. One thing led to another, and he bought a little adjoining acreage for feed lots, pasture, etc. His interest in the cattle continued to grow and without saying much to anyone about it, he began the investigation of the relative merits of the various beef breeds. He read all the authoritative books he could find on the subject, and talked to meat men and some stock men, but not to any pure bred men, because he was not then ready to do so.

Starting from scratch, in this fashion, he made up his mind that the Aberdeen-Angus were the best beef cattle; not only from the standpoint of the beef produced, but for his purpose. He also concluded that inasmuch as there were no Aberdeen-Angus cattle on the Pacific Coast, he might as well start in with pure bred stock and be in a position to supply the demand when it came, as he was convinced would be the case. To get ready for this he bought about 500 acres of nearby land at a rather low price. The low price was the result of the fact that the land was all either sage brush desert, or water-logged and al-kalied on account of irrigation seepage from higher land. He then drained and leveled this land for irrigation, installed pipe lines for water supply, and erected the necessary structures for a first class breeding plant, all before he bought a single Aberdeen-Angus cow. When everything was ready my father and I went to Iowa with Mr. Howard Smith, then Live Stock Agent for the Great Northern Railroad. To make a long story short, we bought about 35 Aberdeen-Angus pure breds from three or four herds, and made the acquaintance of Otto Battles. This was the beginning of more than an acquaintanceship, and Otto and my father hit it off together right away. As it worked out, Otto attended personally to the delivery of the first cattle to Yakima, his first visit to the Valley. He was so much impressed by the possibilities of the region from the point of view of the breeder of registered cattle and by the new farm and improvements that he suggested to my father a possible partnership. I very well remember the pleasure with which my father read Otto's first letter on the subject. He had been considering the idea himself, but had not reached the point of suggesting it.

This was the summer of 1916 and the terms of the deal had been settled upon, whereby Otto would take charge of the new herd and eventually move his Iowa herd to Yakima, when my father died, suddenly and unexpectedly in November of that year. This, of course, halted the negotiations for a partnership. The Yakima enterprise, both orchard and cattle farm, was left to four Trustees, members of the family, to be operated for the benefit of my mother, and the six children; and Trustees cannot go into partnerships. However, an agreement was drawn up between the Trustees and Otto which was designed to put into effect the terms agreed upon between Otto and my father. I know that all, or almost all, my acquaintances among the Aberdeen-Angus breeders have supposed that I am Otto's partner and I wish that it were true; Otto and I concluded years ago to let it go at that because the explanation proved to be too long and complicated. In many respects we have been partners, because I am the Trustee who has given most attention to the Yakima operations, and I have spent the most time there.

In the twenty-two years since Otto went to Yakima, there has been a most notable development of the farm there, not to speak of the herd. Under Otto's very skillful management the sage brush desert and the alkalied and abandoned land has become about the most productive farm land I have ever seen, whether used to produce hay, corn, small grain, or pasture. Otto did this with land that a corn expert told us could not be made to produce a profitable corn crop, let alone a big one. Year after year, once he got into the swing of it, Otto has raised what may truly be called record crops. It is for this reason that we have been able to carry such a large herd, taking the acreage used into consideration. Irrigation costs something, of course, but its costs disappear when you remember that year after year after year you get your rain when you want it.

There is surely no need of my discoursing about the herd. It has talked for itself. When we began, we had, of course, a considerable mixture of blood lines. We had a large plant to get into operation as rapidly as we could. Most of the Battles Iowa herd went to Yakima when our agreement with Otto was executed, and the rest went out immediately after the death of Oakville Quiet Lad. I think it is perfectly safe to say that there is not now an animal in the herd that does not trace back by more than one line to Otto's foundation herd, and to Oakville Quiet Lad.

The last two years have been tough ones, not only for cattle breeders but for everyone. The Trustees are getting along in years, and they are, for Trustees, engaged in a lot of different enterprises—some of them unusual enterprises for Trustees. They have, therefore, decided that the time has come when they ought to retire from the pure bred business and the only really practicable way seems to be to disperse the herd. Personally, I regret the necessity very much, and I suppose I shall be found hanging around shows and sales as much as ever.

HEAD OF PRIZEMERE 387th

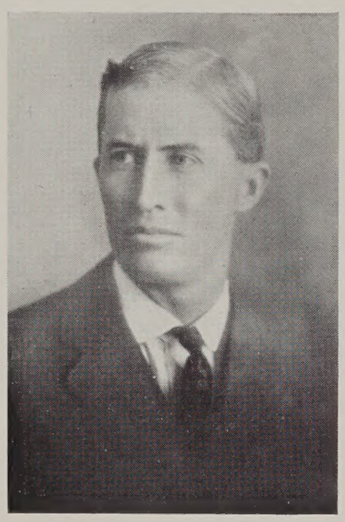
Comments on the Congdon & Battles Dispersion Sale

By JUDGE S. C. FULLERTON

1938 President of the American Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' Association, and noted Aberdeen-Angus breeder and exhibitor of Miami, Oklahoma. Judge Fullerton also served as President of the American Aberdeen-Angus Association in 1937, 1928, 1927, 1926 and 1925.



THE production of live stock is one of the major branches of agriculture, furnishing as it does a market for a large portion of the grain and forage plants produced in farming operations; besides the vast amount of grasses consumed in grazing.

The production of beef cattle probably results in the utilization of more grazing land than all other branches of the live stock industry combined and in addition consumes vast quantities of grain; and no other branch of agriculture contributes more to the conservation and improvement of the soil.

At a time when our government is engaged in the promulgation of a program of soil conservation and improvement, it is important that we give careful thought to the part we play in this very important program. There are many reasons why we should encourage the production of more and better live stock. Aside from a small additional investment of capital necessary to acquire foundation stock, it costs no more—and in my opinion costs less—to produce live stock of good quality than to produce an inferior grade or quality.

After we have given the matter of live stock production the careful thought and consideration that prudent and conservative judgment would require before engaging in any branch of industry and have arrived at the conclusion that we want to engage in the production of beef cattle, either as a major or incidental activity, it is but natural that we first of all select the breed that will give us the best return on our proposed investment and that is best suited to our conditions. In making our initial selection of foundation stock we should undertake to go to reliable and authentic sources for our facts and information to be relied upon in arriving at a decision and selecting the breed that we want to engage in producing.

I submit that the slogan selected by our worthy Secretary for use in breed promotion literature, "THE BREED WITH A RECORD", is a most appropriate one and if anyone who is considering the selection of a breed of beef cattle will make his own investigation from records in the office of the Secretary of the International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago or from breed association literature based upon facts taken from such records, and give intelligent, careful, and impartial consideration to such facts, he cannot escape the conclusion that the Aberdeen-Angus is "THE BREED WITH A RECORD" and that the record it has made will be convincing that no mistake will be made in the founding of a herd of Aberdeen-Angus cattle.

It is submitted that no breed of live stock in America has made more progress in recent years and is more widely distributed than Aberdeen-Angus cattle. Wherever representatives of the breed have had an opportunity they have proven themselves adapted to conditions and have rendered satisfactory performance and returns to their owners whether it be in the feed lot, on the farm or on the range and regardless of what the climatic conditions may be, as is most convincingly demonstrated by reports from more than twenty-five different countries in various parts of the world where herds have been established. It is results of such outstanding performances of representatives of the breed in all parts of the world, at the greatest live stock shows and expositions in competition with all other breeds and crosses that so convincingly establish the justification of the slogan "THE BREED WITH A RECORD" as most fittingly adopted for our great breed.

After a decision has been made as to the breed the next and one of the most important matters for determination is the selection of foundation animals and in reviewing the International records and finding therefrom "THE BREED WITH A RECORD" it will probably appear from these same records that there are also "BREEDERS WITH A RECORD", and a more careful review of the records will disclose that for the past three decades or more one of the foremost breeders and exhibitors of Aberdeen-Angus breeding cattle has been Mr. Otto V. Battles, for many years the manager of the Congdon & Battles herd of Aberdeen-Angus cattle. Mr. Battles has devoted almost his entire lifetime to the task of improving the type and quality of his Aberdeen-Angus cattle. Perhaps no breeder in America has been more diligent in studying questions and practices for the improvement of this super breed of beef cattle. Under his careful supervision and management some of the most outstanding animals have been bred and developed. He is probably recognized among cattlemen as one of the best informed men on the subject of live stock genetics in this country. He has given the subject careful and exhaustive study and has made practical application of the information he has acquired in the breeding problems and development of the Congdon & Battles herd of Aberdeen-Angus cattle until it might reasonably be regarded as the most outstanding herd of the breed in America. It has been most thoroughly demonstrated by the winnings of cattle belonging to the Congdon & Battles herd and of animals previously selected, developed and exhibited by Mr. Battles at the International Live Stock Exposition for thirty years or more that he possesses rare qualifications and ability to select and develop superior specimens of the breed. Cattle selected, developed and exhibited under his management and supervision have been very consistent winners of show yard awards at many of the principal fairs, shows and live stock expositions in America, thus establishing the improved type and high quality of cattle bred and developed under his excellent management and supervision. By his record of performances in the selection, breeding, development, and exhibiting of cattle produced under his management, Mr. Battles has come to be recognized internationally as an outstanding authority on Aberdeen-Angus cattle as was most convincingly demonstrated a few years ago when he was invited to, and did, judge Aberdeen-Angus cattle at one or more of the major live stock shows in Great Britain.

A few weeks ago a most interesting announcement, closely approaching a sensation, was made of the contemplated dispersion of all animals in the famous Rosemere herd of Congdon & Battles' Aberdeen-Angus cattle.

The dispersion of this outstanding herd which in recent years among Aberdeen-Angus breeders of America has come to be regarded as one of the substantial supports of the breed, is almost universally regretted by those most interested in the advancement of the breed. The approaching dispersion sale of the Rosemere herd of Aberdeen-Angus cattle is perhaps one of the greatest and most important events in breed history in this country. It will probably not be seriously contended that more history could be written about animals tracing to this herd than any Aberdeen-Angus herd existing on the North American continent today. For those considering the founding of a herd of Aberdeen-Angus breeding cattle or the addition of new blood to established herds it is a rare opportunity to select at auction prices representatives from this wonderful herd of intensely bred Rosemere cattle. No doubt many outstanding breeders have spent the better part of a lifetime in breeding cattle without such an opportunity, for it is seldom that an entire herd is offered at the very zenith of its existence to the public for distribution without reservation of selected animals.

Animals of Rosemere breeding have in years past been widely distributed in this country, going into established herds and as foundation stock for the founding of new herds and have uniformly rendered a good account of themselves and reflected credit on the herd in which they originated and its owners. Many specific instances could be cited as proof of the foregoing statement but I believe that the correctness of the statement will be so generally accepted that reference to specific cases is unnecessary and would but tend to restrict the almost universal recognition of its correctness. However, I cannot refrain from referring in this connection to our personal experience with animals of Rosemere breeding that have been introduced into our own herd and hope the personal reference will be pardoned when I say that some of the most highly prized animals in our herd are of Rosemere origin and their progeny without exception have proven most valued additions to our breeding herd, and we are looking forward most hopefully and with confidence to the development of the progeny of our animals of Rosemere breeding.

The dispersion of a herd which the greater part of a lifetime has been spent in building up is such an unusual and extraordinary event that those interested in founding a new herd or in adding new blood to existing herds should enthusiastically avail themselves of the opportunity offered to acquire animals at public auction that at private treaty probably would not be offered at all unless at extravagant and what to most of us would be considered prohibitive prices.

In the extended pedigrees of animals cataloged for this eventful sale will be found animals that have been renowned in the making of breed history and I predict that in this sale will be offered specimens of the breed that will likewise make further history for the breed and be the source from which future champions will be produced for there can be no serious controversy among informed breeders that blood will tell. "THE BREED WITH A RECORD" slogan can be traced to the prepotency of the many champions of the breed and many of such champions can be traced to the Rosemere herd.

I am looking forward to the eventful occasion of the Rosemere dispersion sale in anticipation of the enthusiastic appreciation and support of all who are interested in the production of better live stock and more especially of those directly interested in the production of more and better representatives of that great breed, the Aberdeen-Angus, "THE BREED WITH A RECORD". It is to be hoped that those comprising the firm of Congdon & Battles will have such support on this occasion that after it has become history they will feel that their efforts expended toward the improvement and development of the breed have been amply appreciated and that they can look back at the record they have assisted in making with a degree of pride that will be a source of pleasure and satisfaction to them throughout the remainder of their lives; that they will not be satisfied in the future until they have re-established themselves, either individually or with new associates, in the production and development of more and better Aberdeen-Angus cattle. In the expression of such sentiments I feel that I am voicing the sentiments and good will of all the members of the American Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' Association.

Aberdeen-Angus in America

By W. H. TOMHAVE

Former head of the Animal Husbandry Department of Penn State College, and Secretary of the American Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' Ass'n since 1924.

IT is sixty years since the first registered Aberdeen-Angus cattle were imported into the United States by Anderson & Findlay, Lake Forest, Illinois. The progress made by the breed in the United States since that time is a record which taxes the stretch of imagination for a new breed that had to be introduced in competition with two long established breeds. During the early eighties rapid strides were made in the founding of pure bred herds with cattle imported from Scotland. Most of these earlier herds were established in the corn belt states, which consequently became the breeding ground of Aberdeen-Angus cattle. These early importers secured outstanding bulls and females from the leading herds of Scotland. The breed was fortunate in having as some of its early admirers keen students of animal breeding, men who selected females and herd bulls with great care, both from the point of view of breeding and individual merit. As a result of this careful selection of foundation animals a number of herds were developed which became the fountain heads of the breed in America.

This newly imported breed was early exhibited at the local, state and national shows to advertise the breed, and to the great surprise of the American cattlemen consistently carried off the major honors on their merit in interbreed competition. In the carcass contests, fat carloads and single steers the breed soon became an important winner by constantly winning more grand championships than any other breed.

Among these early breeders and importers were Anderson & Findlay, Alex Geddes, J. J. Rodgers, J. V. Farrell, B. R. Pierce, H. C. Allen, L. McWhorter, L. H. Herrick and A. A. Armstrong of Illinois; A. B. Mathews, Estill & Elliott and Gudgel & Simpson of Missouri; J. S. & W. R. Goodwin, W. M. D. Lee and Parker Parrish and Miller of Kansas; J. J. Hill, Alex Campbell, John C. Christie and J. Tyson of Minnesota; Leslie & Burwell of Wisconsin; Turlington W. Harvey of Nebraska; D. Bradfute & Son of Ohio; W. A. McHenry; Charles Escher & Son, W. B. Seeley & Son and P. J. Donohoe of Iowa. All of these breeders made notable contributions to the development of the breed prior to 1900.

The first period up to 1900 was a period of introduction and acceptance and the period following one of continued improvement and expansion. Many noted herds and individuals have been developed during the period since 1900, and great improvement has been made in the breed. This progress was made possible because of the splendid foundation work that was done by these early breeders.

The first important sire used by Mr. Battles was Glenfoil Thick Set 2d 88142, a grandson of Black Woodlawn, whose dam was Dolly Copeland 42389 and sired by Brookside Star 63486. This bull was purchased in 1906 from P. J. Donohoe. The next bull of importance to be used was Oakville Quiet Lad 109220. He was bred by John Cash, Jr., of Parnell, Iowa. This bull was a son of Black Woodlawn and his dam was Queen McHenry 47th 61884. Glenfoil Thick Set 2d was three times grand champion at the International, winning this honor in 1907, 1908 and 1909. Oakville Quiet Lad was the International grand champion in 1910. The selection of these bulls as International grand champions not only reflected the fitting ability of Mr. Battles as a judge of good live stock but his ability to pick winners. The females for the herd were as carefully selected as the herd bulls, hence the combination necessary for a great and constructive breeding program.

The Rosemere herd of Aberdeen-Angus has played an important role in contributing to the expansion of the breed, first at Maquoketa, Iowa, under the ownership of Mr. Battles and during the past twenty years at Yakima, Washington. Mr. Battles made splendid progress in breeding Aberdeen-Angus cattle while operating single handed prior to 1916. His greatest work however, was done after forming a partnership with Mr. Congdon in 1916. At that time the nucleus or foundation of the present herd was made up of a selection of cattle from Rosemere and a few other leading herds in Iowa. The formation of this partnership offered a greater opportunity for herd development because of a larger number of cattle and greater facilities. Mr. Battles has never practiced hap-hazard methods of breeding and mating. Records show that a definite plan of operation was followed at all times. The mating of the cattle in the herd was always given the most careful consideration. All important matings were definitely planned and based upon the principles of genetics.

Weaknesses or undesirable qualities were eliminated by mating. Line breeding was followed to a very considerable extent with a very few out-crosses permitted. This resulted in the establishment of a uniform type of cattle of the ideal Aberdeen-Angus type that met the demand of a select trade. With a large number of herd bulls available it was possible to make matings that could not have been followed in small herds. Outstanding herd bulls were always used and proven sires always remained in the herd.

The problem of selling surplus cattle was admirably met through holding extensive advertised annual auctions and by private treaty. In selling so many cattle there is certain to be some cases of animals not being entirely satisfactory for one reason or another. This firm operated on the theory that the customer is always right even though such was not always the case. Every adjustment asked for has always been taken care of in a satisfactory manner and has resulted in many repeat orders from these old customers and many new ones. The writer, as secretary, has yet to hear the first complaint or find the first person who was not satisfied with an adjustment made for cattle that did not prove satisfactory. A splendid record for a firm selling so many cattle.

The Rosemere herd has been a potent force in the development of the Aberdeen-Angus industry on the West Coast. Many of the pure bred herds were started with foundation cattle from this establishment. Hundreds of Aberdeen-Angus bulls were sold to range owners all along the Pacific Coast and in the Northwest, all of which have created a greater interest in Aberdeen-Angus cattle. There is no herd in America that has enjoyed a wider range of trade territory than Rosemere. Cattle have been sold to customers in practically every state, Canada and Hawaii and New Zealand.

There is no herd that has been more extensively exhibited. The herd has been represented at nearly all the leading shows each year. In recent years two and three show herds have been fitted and exhibited in order that the breed might be represented in the East, Middlewest and West. Rosemere Aberdeen-Angus hold the record for continuous showing at the International Live Stock Exposition where they have been exhibited continuously since 1906. By showing each year, this herd has an unparalleled record and has been an invaluable factor in popularizing the breed. Rosemere also has the distinction of having exhibited more grand champion Aberdeen-Angus breeding cattle at the International than any other exhibitor, present or past. The showing of the Rosemere herd has not been limited to breeding cattle. Many steers have been fitted for the single classes at the leading shows and for carload lots at the Pacific Coast shows, winning numerous championships, especially at the West Coast shows. Many outstanding steers exhibited by colleges have been of Rosemere breeding.

The dispersal sale of this great herd is a distinct loss to the breed and the pure bred industry. On the brighter side of the picture, however, there is great satisfaction in knowing that seed stock from this breeding establishment, through this dispersal sale, will go into the herds of the East, West, North and South where the radiating influence of Rosemere breeding will be felt for many years to come. At this sale, foundation breeding animals produced through years of constructive breeding will be available to all interested breeders. It will afford an opportunity to purchase some outstanding breeding cattle that have never been offered for sale and would not be offered now if the herd were to be kept intact. This sale should prove to be one of the most outstanding events in the history of American Aberdeen-Angus. No sale of this magnitude has ever been held. There will be offered for sale the largest number of outstanding Aberdeen-Angus breeding cattle that the American public has ever had an opportunity to buy. This sale should bring together the largest number of Aberdeen-Angus breeders and admirers that ever assembled to an Aberdeen-Angus event in America. While Mr. Battles' plans are somewhat uncertain we all hope he will continue his work with Aberdeen-Angus cattle.

From Farm Boy to Fame

The Possibilities of Animal Husbandry as Illustrated in the Case of Otto V. Battles.

By ALVIN H. SANDERS

The dean of agricultural journalism. Former editor and publisher of the old Breeders' Gazette.

OUR story begins upon a Jackson County Iowa farm located in a land of tall corn and blue grass; a land of good husbandry and happy homes; a land where the golden hooves of well-bred live stock perpetuate the native fertility of the prairie soil. Here many years ago, a man named Battles practiced cattle feeding as a part of his farming program. He had a son, Otto, who was left fatherless at the age of twelve. The lad loved to watch the steers wax fat on the liberal rations of grain which were served, and he had noticed that among them there appeared an occasional animal minus horns and wearing a black hide. Otto took a liking to these smooth blacks and had been told that they were of a breed for which Iowa was even then becoming famous, the Aberdeen-Angus.

The widow carried on after the master's passing, and the son, young though he was, took a deep interest in all that was going on. Shortly after his father's death he induced his mother to buy a pair of pure bred Aberdeen-Angus cows, and he maintained this keen interest in the blacks until, when he was twenty one, he rented the farm and started on his own. He knew right away what he was going to do. One of his first resolves was to continue breeding the black, hornless cattle. Before beginning he had made a careful study of various herds prominent at that time in order to make up his mind what sort of a foundation he would build upon. Incidentally he was also determined to learn all he could of the background of the breed as a whole. There was not so much information available then as now, but he knew that the story had its beginnings in the north of Scotland where Wm. McCombie, Hugh Watson, Sir George MacPherson Grant, and their contemporaries perfected the type we know today. In imagination he saw the granite hills of Aberdeenshire, the vale of Strathmore, rich in song and story, and Speyside with its high and heathered slopes—fit settings in the motherland for the birth of such a "bonny" breed. He had heard somewhere of the long voyage of the old sailing ship Alabama from Glasgow to New Orleans in the spring of 1878, with those precious four black bulls consigned to George Grant, Victoria, Kansas; the long journey up the Mississippi to St. Louis; the removal of the long horns from the old Texas cows of that period when the much-travelled bulls were set to work in Kansas pastures—probably the most stirring single epic in the literature of American animal husbandry. Since that remote date a vast panorama, sixty years in the making, has been unrolled—a moving picture of the American agricultural progress presented in which the Aberdeen-Angus cattle occupy a conspicuous place.

Possibly the first American to interest himself in the introduction of Aberdeen-Angus cattle to the stockmen of the States was a New York City merchant, Thomas R. Clark, of the big merchandising firm of Fisk, Clark & Flagg. He owned a large tract of land near Geo. Grant's place, and is said to have had an interest in the four bulls constituting the original importation. At any rate he was a keen observer of the improvement wrought at once by the black bulls upon the old Spanish Long Horns, and he marketed two-year-old half-bred steers of his own at Kansas City in the late seventies. These at once attracted marked attention from the feeders of Missouri and adjacent territory and when those two Aberdonians—Thomas Anderson and George Findlay of Lake Forest, Illinois—made an importation from Scotland consisting of one bull and five females in the summer of 1878, the foundation of our subsequent great polled Aberdeen-Angus industry had been duly laid. These cattle and their progeny were shown with success at the state fairs of that period and the firm made further importations.

John V. Farwell, wealthy Chicago dry goods merchant, owner of a good farm in Iowa, was George Findlay's employer and soon became an admirer of the blacks. He decided to try them out in Iowa and in 1881 participated in making an importation of eighty head. Mr. Farwell, in conjunction with others, next proceeded to put polled bulls in service on the great XIT—the so-called Capitol Syndicate Ranch in Texas. The first black bull sold by Anderson & Findlay for use on the range went to Lee & Reynolds, extensive operators of that period. This bull was so very, very black that he was facetiously named Snowball. Alex Geddes, a Scotchman prominent in the Chicago grain trade, brought out purely bred polls for use on his own farm, and thus became one of the pioneer supporters of the breed in the middle west.

Interest was now spreading in all directions. In New York State, Frank B. Redfield began importing freely, and it was with one of his bulls that Estill & Elliott of Missouri—afterwards towering figures in the trade—made their beginning. The next history-making event in the corn-belt was the entrance of Gudgell & Simpson into the black cattle breeding ranks. Old Governor Simpson went to Scotland and the breeders over there were much impressed by the keeness of his judgments. In 1882 he brought out, among other good ones, the afterwards celebrated bull, Knight of St. Patrick, and the history-making, Blackcap, bred by Sir George Macpherson Grant at Ballindalloch. These two animals contributed largely towards the growing popularity of the polls this side the sea. Speaking of Blackcap and Ballindalloch, the writer will not soon forget a day he once spent as the guest of Sir George. As we strolled through the pastures and studied the different animals led out for inspection from the "byres", I was deeply impressed by the exceptionally fine finish, the superb quality of the cattle that had been produced in this far-famed herd. The blockiness—the substance—of the old McCombie-Watson stock had been preserved and at the same time decidedly refined.

Geary Bros., of London, Ontario; and Hon. M. H. Cochrane, of Hillhurst, Quebec, now began importing blacks into Canada. A. B. Mathews, G. W. Henry and others joined the early Aberdeen-Angus parade in the Kansas City territory. Turlington W. Harvey of Chicago established a great herd at his farm in eastern Nebraska, and in 1883 the Gearys brought out from Scotland the grand bullock, Black Prince, a Smithfield prize winner, and shipped him by express at large expense from Quebec quarantine to Kansas City in order to show him at the Fat Stock Show of that year at that point. He was an old time big one, weighing 2360 pounds but smooth and richly fleshed. Nevertheless, he was not appreciated. The Shorthorn power at that time was the dominating influence but the Aberdeen-Angus day was close at hand. J. J. Hill, "the empire builder" joined the forces presenting to American feeders the claims of the hornless North Country cattle at the Chicago Fat Stock Show. At Kansas City in 1885, Gudgell & Simpson's "Sandy", a steer sired by Knight of St. Patrick and the cross-bred Angus-Hereford heifer, Burleigh's Pride, were exhibited successfully. In 1887 Wallace Estill, one of the outstanding cattle breeders of his time in the middle west, set up the "baby beef" standard by showing the pony-built "Dot" which John Imboden bought and fed to the grand championship of 1888. The big steer's sun had definitely set. A veritable tidal wave of enthusiasm for the blacks was obviously coming in. Indiana and Ohio breeders joined with men like B. R. Pierce and J. J. Rodgers of Illinois in sending well-fitted herds into leading show yards. The names of L. McWhorter, the Bradfutes, L. H. Kerrick, Goodwin & Judy, and many of like prominence became conspicuous in the great advance; and speaking of the "great advance", we find another high spot in the American Aberdeen-Angus story in the appearance of the great black bullock of that name, which Stanley Pierce led through to the grand championship at the initial International Live Stock Exposition. Then from the Pierces, too, came the greatest sire of the breed of his time, Black Woodlawn, to gain championship honors at Chicago. Writing of this bull some years ago I said: "The blood of Black Woodlawn has probably been intensified in more breeds and animals than that of any other one bull in the history of Aberdeen-Angus cattle breeding in America. He seems to have founded a family of his own, far-reaching in its beneficial results". It was with this blood that Otto Battles, ambitious young Iowa farmer, decided—wisely as it so turned out—to begin his career as a breeder of black cattle.

In 1887 W. A. McHenry, banker and land speculator at Denison, Iowa, founded a herd that made plenty of American Aberdeen-Angus history. His first marked success was with the bull Abactor by Ermine Bearer out of Imp. Coquette 10th—both bred at Ballindalloch. In 1892 the McHenry show herd made a triumphal tour of the mid-west fair circuit. Those were the days of inter-breed championship contests; and at the Illinois State Fair Mr. McHenry not only won in the herd competition over a grand lot of Shorthorns and Herefords, but his great Progress of Turlington was declared the best female of any beef breed in the show. By this time everybody recognized the rare beauty and great substance of the blacks. There has not been a day during the past forty years that they have not commanded throughout the entire United States the admiration of producers and top prices from packers. Mr. McHenry made a great "killing" at the World's Columbian Exposition, one of the most memorable cattle shows ever held in America; and for a long series of years he contributed largely to the strengthening of leading western herds. Wallace Estill was a great rival always for show-yard honors and for the patronage of the best black cattle breeders. Mr. Estill's herd was dispersed at Chicago in March 1900. Mr. McHenry was present, prepared to bid for show cattle, and arranged in advance for Bob Johnson, the Estill herdsman, to carry them on for the fall fairs of that year. There was keen competition for the best ones and McHenry had to pay $2,800.00 for Lucia Estill.

The McHenry herd was sold at length to that successful practical cattleman, Charles Escher, Jr., of Botna, Iowa, for $80,000.00. This was one of the most important transactions of its kind ever consumated. The herd included probably the greatest lot of breeding matrons in this country at that date. Also the bull Earl Marshall, that became easily the greatest sire of his time; his most valuable single contribution to the breed being the celebrated bull Blackcap Revolution, for which Mr. H. O. Harrison of San Francisco paid James D. McGregor $15,000.00 after winning the International Grand Championship of 1923.

While all this and other various events of major importance—too numerous to even mention here—were being recorded, the breed was gaining new friends every day. Trade was particularly active in the state of Iowa. Escher & Ryan, the Messrs. Evans, Pat Donohoe and many others were carrying the black standard to still greater heights; and presently came an opportunity—which the Aberdeen-Angus fraternity quickly seized—for establishing the breed still more firmly in the good esteem of feeders and killers. We refer to the founding of the Chicago International Show of 1900. Here was offered the chance to demonstrate in a broad way, and in the lime-light of fullest possible publicity, the real supremacy of the Aberdeen-Angus as producers of prime marbled beef. The breed Association promptly appropriated money for special prizes to exhibitors, and the big fight was on. The International management inaugurated at once the practice of bringing over from Great Britain a cattle judge of proved ability and one who could not possibly have any personal axes to grind in this competition. At the first show-down between the breeds at Chicago, the judge was one of England's best known experts, Mr. J. B. Ellis of Walsingham, and when he reached the grand championship he found two "blackskins" tied for the highest honor of the year, towit: the champion two year old, Good Times, and the champion yearling, Advance. After comparing them carefully Mr. Ellis sent the pair for a walk together about the ring, and when they resumed their places Stanley Pierce was handed the purple rosette on Advance. At that same show ten different lots were exhibited from the XIT ranch, including Shorthorns, Herefords, and Aberdeen-Angus, and a load of the latter won the feeder championship. L. H. Kerrick won the grand car-load championship for 15 grain-fed cattle on a load of polls averaging 1492 lbs. that sold for $15.50 per cwt. while the range for prime steers in the general market that week was $6.00 to $6.30. This "clean-up" proved but the fore-runner of a long series of Aberdeen-Angus International victories. They dropped the 1901 championship to a Hereford, but did they come back the following year? James Biggar of Scotland—the father of Walter, who later on served the show for twelve successive years—tied the ribbons in the individual bullock division. When the curtain fell that week the "doddies" had won two out of the three championships by ages, grand championship with "Shamrock" and grand champion and reserve for best group. In car lots the blacks made almost as clean a sweep; while on the block they took five top prizes. The Iowa College herd supplied some marvelous material for this great demonstration and Charles Escher had the champion car load.

As has already been intimated Otto Battles was tremendously impressed by the great Blackbird bull Black Woodlawn. His get were coming along in sensational fashion and were not easy to buy. Mr. Battles succeeded however in inducing Pat Donohoe to let him have two Black Woodlawn heifers and a young bull; but the latter did not develop to suit the exacting taste of the buyer, and in his stead a grandson of Black Woodlawn called Glenfoil Thick Set 2d was obtained from Mr. Donohoe after he had won the junior championship at Chicago. This was in the fall of 1906. The following year a show herd was put on the road, with Glenfoil Thick Set 2d at the head. He was then two years old and bore away the International Grand Championship, and that same honor among females was carried by his half-sister, Glenfoil Queen 2d. The herd prize was won everywhere, including Chicago. Strange to relate, this extraordinary success was duplicated in 1908; the female grand championship this time being won by the two year old, Her Majesty 2d. It thus seemed fairly apparent that no mistake had been made in tying up to the Black Woodlawn blood; and it was thereafter steadfastly employed.

In the spring of 1908 the Black Woodlawn bull, Oakville Quiet Lad, was bought. He headed his class at the shows of that year. In 1909 Glenfoil Thick Set 2d was sold to Mr. McHenry to head his show string and was again grand champion at the International. Meantime Quiet Lad had been placed at the head of the herd; and after a triumphant career of three years on the big circuits, concluding with the Chicago Grand Championship of 1910, he was retired from the show-yard and put in active service. It should be stated that in public competition he was never defeated. Freely used until 1920, Oakville Quiet Lad sired most of the star performers of Mr. Battles' show herds of that period. Possibly his most outstanding son was Idolmere that topped all black bulls of 1919. While Mr. Battles was thus early breaking into the ranks of breed leadership, he was quietly adding the best animals he could buy from Mr. McHenry, E. T. Davis, of Iowa City, and the Donohoes. There were not so many of these but they were all strictly Class A cattle, and from them and their descendants the new world-famous Rosemere herd was largely builded.

ed cows with Barbara of Rosemere 100th, by Prizemere 32d; and Professor Blizzard—who tied the ribbons upon this important occasion—made her senior champion female. Hon. Henry W. Marshall, President of the International, headed the senior heifers, ten of them, with Pride of Colemere, by Prizemere 50th out of Pride of Rosemere 207th. The next class, also ten "crack" heifers, was led by J. Omar Cole of Peru, Indiana, with Colemere Blackbird by Prizemere 50th out of Blackbird of Rosemere 124th. The get of Eileenmere 32d were coming strong also, and Mr. Marshall won out with a great heifer by that bull, Blackcap Tolan 35th, that subsequently received the junior and grand female championship.

At the Chicago show of 1935 Mr. J. Garrett Tolan, of Pleasant Plains, Illinois, had the satisfaction of seeing Dean Kildee of the Iowa State College, presiding as judge of Aberdeen-Angus, send Eileenmere 73d, son of Eileenmere 32d, to the front in aged bulls, while Eileenmere 85th, by the same sire, not only headed the next bull class but fought his way

But coming down to the Rosemere show cattle of the more recent past, we find that in 1922 Barbara of Rosemere 33d was first and Junior Champion Female at Chicago with her stablemate, Blackmere 16th, which was Junior Champion Bull at the same show. In 1924 Barbara of Rosemere 40th was Junior Champion at Chicago and in 1925 Pride of Rosemere 67th by Prizemere 9th was Junior and Reserve Grand Champion Female at Chicago, winning the grand championship the following year at the same show. In 1928 Barbara of Rosemere 64th by Prizemere 32d was Junior and Reserve Grand Champion Female at the Chicago International and in 1929 Blackcapmere 62d, also by Prizemere 32d, was Reserve Junior Champion Bull. In 1932 Prizemere 141st reappeared at Chicago after an absence of two years, and gained second in a class of eight aged bulls. He, too, was a son of Prizemere 32d. A daughter of that same sire, Pride of Rosemere 289th, was Junior Champion Female at the Chicago International of 1932. John C. Burns judged the class at the International of 1933 and in aged bulls placed Prizemere 141st at the top over Elliott Brown's grand champion of 1932, Envious Marshall. The two year old bull winner in 1933 was the smooth deep Barbarian of Rosemere 64th which was subsequently made Grand Champion. In two year old heifers, Barbara of Rosemere 100th, by Prizemere 32d, headed a string of eight and walked her way through to the grand championship. The herd then went out and defeated nine competing groups, the pick of the show cattle of the year.

At the so-called Jubilee Show at the International of 1934 Judge Fullerton of Miami, Oklahoma, whose herd has attained nation-wide fame, was first in ag-up to the grand championship. Just to demonstrate that Eileenmere 32d, a grandson of the Battles-bred Eileenmere 4th, was a sire of A 1 females, as well as of bull champions, Mr. Tolan sent into the cow class at this same show, Blackbird Tolan 12th, that headed her line; and in the senior heifers were led by the sensational Blackcap Tolan 35th, shown by Mr. Marshall. Next in rank to her was Congdon & Battles' Blackbird of Rosemere 164th by Prizemere 32d. Blackcap Tolan 35th was later made female grand champion of 1935; repeating her winning of the previous year. And will anyone who saw them ever forget the "best ten head of breeding cattle" exhibited at that same show from Mr. Tolan's herd? Rosemere blood was truly breeding on.

In 1936 the grand championship among the bulls was won by the two year old, Epponian 8th of Rosemere, a son of Eileenmere 61st. The female "grand" was for the third year in succession borne away by Blackcap Tolan 35th, now one of the most famous show cows of any breed on either side of the Atlantic. In the get of sire contest Tolan's Eileenmere 32d scored over nine other impressive groups. In 1937 Blackcapmere 113th won in aged bulls and Barbara of Rosemere 47th's great son, Bandolier of Anoka 6th, shown by Edwards Bros., of Ontario, was senior and grand champion bull.

As a matter of fact the Rosemere herd has probably won more grand championships, junior and reserve championships and first prizes than any other one herd of any breed. Indeed, I suspect that it may safely be said that this herd has won more prizes in the aggregate than any herd of any breed on either side the Atlantic; because for a long series of years it has regularly and successfully campaign-

The Value of a Long Time Breeding Plan

BREEDERS attending the dispersion of the Congdon & Battles cattle will regret the breaking up of a herd whose history covers more than three decades in the life of the junior partner and direct manager, Otto V. Battles. The opportunity of bidding on the better known breeding cows and the tried sires of Rosemere means much to the majority attending this distinctive event in the American history of Aberdeen-Angus, but those who have the welfare of the breed at heart cannot escape a feeling of sorrow that identity of this herd can no longer be maintained.

Few herds have enjoyed the advantages vouchsafed Rosemere. The financial backing of the senior Mr. Congdon, his long time vision, and his appreciation of the necessity of numbers in the breeding herd if real improvement was to be secured, provided an unusual opportunity. The continuance of his policies by his sons provided adequate time for constructive results. The experience and skill of Mr. Battles, his success as a breeder of show cattle, and the further success of animals of his breeding in other herds made the combination of forces an assured triumph.

From the start, individual merit of the animals used for breeding provided the chief basis of selection, but the skill with which the animals were chosen for blood lines, in establishing the herd, provided a pedigree foundation that permitted the concentration of blood to increase as selection for individual merit progressed. The value of the Rosemere herd developed because it has concentrated, by mild degrees of line breeding, the blood of famous animals, so that each generation both in average and in tops has advanced a little over the generation that preceded it. Cattle purchased outside the herd have been selected first of all with the idea that their good qualities could contribute to the herd, but every animal has also been descended from ancestors which were of Rosemere breeding or had been used in producing the foundation animals of the herd. Outcrosses have been few and when they have occurred they have come through the female line so as to produce the least disruption of the breeding program in case the outcross was not successful. So carefully has the breeding been planned that in only two or three instances have such outcrosses equalled the established blood lines.

During the life of the Rosemere Herd there has been the greatest advance in the knowledge of heredity, principles of breeding, genetics, physiology of reproduction, animal disease, and animal nutrition that has occurred in any period of world history. The owners of the Rosemere Herd have been particularly open-minded in applying practically what could be used of these newer advances in knowledge. The system under which the cattle were kept at Yakima has done much to test the efficiency of the members of the herd as feed consumers, and the "good doers," both in the cows and the calves, have proved themselves on the grasses of the irrigated pastures there available. Probably no herd of equal prominence and size has had the opportunity of demonstrating its capacities on rations so limited in concentrates, and persons securing animals from the Rosemere dispersion can feel thoroughly assured that these animals will utilize their feeds most efficiently. If beef consumption in the United States is to return to the volume per capita that once characterized it, it must be sold at prices the public can afford, and hence must be based on lower costs of production and the making of quality beef from cheaper food sources. Rosemere cattle have been tried by this standard, and their efficient performance can almost be guaranteed.

Proof of the value of the blood lines is not lacking as a result of show records. There is no point in reviewing Rosemere winnings in the show ring, yet five grand champion bulls and five grand champion cows at the International Live Stock Exposition climax a long list of winnings; and of these, three bulls and two cows were calved in the Rosemere Herd as a result of the plan of breeding. In addition, ten junior or reserve grand champions were so produced and a large number of first prize animals.

It is beside the point to argue whether showyard winnings are the best measure of success for breeders. As matters stand today, they provide practically the only measure, since the production, exhibition and slaughter of pure bred steers is likely to be unprofitable due to the difficulty of holding steer competitions at the time of year when market prices are normally most favorable. A challenge to breeders of beef cattle still remains unanswered in so far as measuring the value of their pure bred bulls and cows as producers of prime beef is concerned. Yet the Rosemere record in this particular stands close examination and championships or reserves have been won in all of the leading steer competitions of the country.

One always experiences a feeling of sadness when good things come to an end, and the Congdon & Battles dispersion is no exception to the rule. The herd has been intimately identified with breed progress and the events of breed history throughout its most trying times—under the stress of the World War, in the great boom that came on the heels of the war, and throughout the greater depression that trailed thereafter. Throughout the entire period the owners have maintained their ideals, followed their plan of breeding, exhibited at the leading shows, done their part in keeping the breed before the public, and in every way acted for the greater good of the Aberdeen-Angus and of pure bred beef cattle as well as for their own herd. The fraternity of breeders will miss them, and the students of constructive breeding will mourn their departure. All will earnestly hope that several will take advantage of this dispersion to secure a nucleus of Rosemere blood on which many herds of the future may be built.

The Beef Cattle Industry in California

By NELSON R. CROW, Editor and Publisher
Western Live Stock Journal
Los Angeles, California

A sound beef improvement program is taking place in California and other far western states. Range cattlemen are eager to improve the usefulness and quality of their output, and at the same time, increase the efficiency of production. Back of this desire is the prime necessity of increasing gross cash income in the face of restriction of the use of public lands, the turning over of rich valley pastures to specialized, cultivated crops, high land values, increased taxes and higher operating expense generally. More beef must be manufactured on less land, and less desirable land, too.

I have seen the transition from a strictly range production proposition to a range and feedlot cattle business. There are cattlemen now living and active who recall when California was engaged in the cattle business on a large scale primarily for the production of hides and tallow. For California has been a BIG cattle state for more than 100 years; it is a bigger cattle state now than ever before; and it always will be a big cattle state. For out of some 114 million acres of land in the state, less than 10% is cultivated or subject to cultivation. Most of the balance is what we term range land—and in spite of the tremendous growth in population, it must continue primarily as a range cattle state.

Accurate estimates on cattle population go back only to about 1869 when California had a cattle population of around 1,000,000. Today, we have about 2,300,000 cattle, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. It has been only within the past twelve or fifteen years that our California cattle business was anything but a range proposition. Our cattle people depended entirely upon the elements for beef. If we were short of rain, the cattle didn't get fat and there are plenty of instances when a great many cattle starved to death.

With the increase in population, our cattle people gradually have had the benefit of a growing home market for fully 50 percent more beef than is being produced in California and an insistent demand for a year around supply of good beef. The tremendous influx of population from other parts of the United States, folk who had always been accustomed to dry-lot beef, demand a constantly improved quality of beef. Our cattlemen have found that it pays well to cater to this quality demand—therefore the transition from a strictly grass proposition to feedlot finishing. About fifteen years ago, first efforts were directed towards supplemental feeding of cattle on the range. This served to prevent costly shrinkage in weight during the periods of short grass feed supplies, and at the same time, to spread out the marketing season from grass areas. Next came the feedlot finishing of cattle, so that California and adjoining states could provide consumers with a constant supply of high quality beef, every week in the year.

A few years ago, to the best of my knowledge, we had less than half a dozen feedlots in the entire state. Today, California is one of the big cattle feeding states, and our neighbor, Arizona, also has gone into feed lot finishing on a big scale. In the two states, there were more than 250,000 cattle in dry lots on January 1, 1938. During the course of the year, it may be estimated that there are well above 500,000 cattle finished in dry lots, largely on home grown rations including barley, alfalfa hay, cottonseed cake, milo, silage and a dozen or more industrial by-products. We are producing beef that grades choice to prime under U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics grading on these rations and the University of California has won the grand champion steer award three times at the Chicago International on essentially the same rations, a fact which proves that corn is not essential to the economical production of prime beef. I might also mention that our feeding rations include such products as cull figs, raisins, dried beet pulp, dried grape pulp, dried orange pulp. Probably our cheapest and best feed is Hawaiian cane molasses which is available in tremendous quantity at around $12.00 a ton in tank car lots at San Francisco and Los Angeles harbors. I doubt if there is any other section of the United States where good and choice grades of beef can be produced more economically, or on such a great variety of rations.

To a great extent, it is this feed lot development that is back of the demand for good range bulls. Grass is the most economical feed in the world and when ill-bred cattle waste this grand feed, the cattleman is not so likely to take note of the waste. But when you put cattle into a feed lot, it is always expensive, whether in Iowa or California. Your figures on costs of production quickly show that well-bred feeder calves, with their natural easy fleshing qualities, utilize costly grain rations and other concentrates, more quickly and more economically than do the mediocre kinds. And when the supreme test comes at marketing time, there is usually a substantial premium in price because of the better quality product.

Out here in our country, range men are wholesale buyers of really good stock bulls. In fact, there is no practical limit to the number of genuinely good, beef type bulls that can be sold to commercial cattlemen. California and Arizona have been just about the best buyers of good quality breeding bulls in the entire country. There are many commercial operators who have graded up their breeding herds to a point where they are finding it extremely difficult to find breeding bulls that are actually good enough to continue the important work of breed improvement. Frankly, there are many people who are of the opinion that commercial cattlemen are making greater progress than are the registered beef cattle breeders, as a whole. Here is a real challenge to the registered beef cattle breeders. There are all too few genuine breeders such as Otto Battles, the sort of men who by instinct and by application are consistently breeding better and better cattle, the kind that will go out and sire calves that are better than their dams. Range cattlemen have learned to their sorrow that merely because a bull is registered in a breed association is not sufficient guarantee that he will prove to be a sire of good calves. Merely the fact that the sire and dam are both registered undoubtedly means that the offspring will be better than the offspring of mates of unknown heritage. But unless the man who is mating sires and dams has a thorough understanding of what he is aiming to accomplish, it is doubtful if he may rightfully term himself a breeder and an improver. Over a period of many years, I have seen these Rosemere cattle win more grand championships at Chicago and at other national shows than have been won by any other breeder within any breed.

There are all too few men who own registered herds who are at the same time beef improvers. When a man like Otto Battles announces the sale of the Congdon & Battles herd, it is a matter that cannot but be viewed with deep regret yet this feeling is somewhat mitigated by the knowledge that these grand Aberdeen-Angus foundation cattle will be made available to other breeders throughout the country. There is no doubt as to the almost priceless value of these cattle to those who realize the responsibility that goes with the ownership of such stock. It is a genuine challenge to beef improvers.

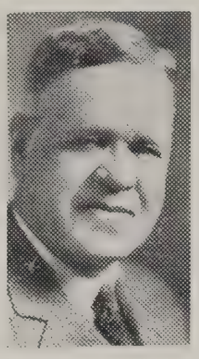
There is a vital need for beef improvement; vital need for the production, particularly, of good beef bulls that will add to the economic value of America's vast range cattle business. Production of bulls suitable for range herd improvement is a profitable business from a financial standpoint, for we have the two elements needed for any successful business: a broad demand that will continue to expand; and a limited supply that taxes the brains and abilities of breeders to increase sufficiently to meet the demand. But aside from the financial gains, which are all important, of course, is the reward which must come from the satisfaction of adding to the economic resources of our country.

The live stock and meat business is said to be the biggest business in America; here in California one dollar out of every three received from all agricultural pursuits comes from live stock sales. In some of our western states, fully half of all agricultural cash income is gained from live stock sales and in Nevada, $11.00 out of $13.-00 received by agriculture comes from live stock sales!

Breeders would do well to always consider the range trade and keep in mind the range needs. It is necessary for the range man to increase the percentage of calves raised per each 100 cows; he must obtain the greatest possible number of pounds of beef out of his available grass and forage; and he must constantly improve his product in order to obtain a sufficient premium in price to pay increased operation costs and still come out with a profit. He must have bulls with scale and substance, the kind that are good rustlers, easy keepers and that possess natural fleshing qualities.

That there is a tremendous field for development of Aberdeen-Angus breeding stock on the range goes without question, and especially is that true in California. Range men should be impressed with the fact that Aberdeen-Angus cattle have the substance and scale and that the offspring, even when crossed on horned cattle, will be very nearly 100% naturally hornless. No cowman likes to dehorn calves and yearlings; not only is it a laborious job but it is costly as well.

More and more, production from range herds must be finished in feed lots here in the west. There is no doubt about the ability of Aberdeen-Angus calves to make profitable use out of grains and forage and to develop into beef fit for the most critical American consumer.



Rosemere as I Saw It in 1907

By W. J. KENNEDY

Former Head of Animal Husbandry Dept. Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa. Now Vice-President and General Manager, Anchor Serum Company, Kansas City, Missouri.

THE old saying "Great oaks from little acorns grow" has been amply proven in the unprecedented progress made in the Rosemere Aberdeen-Angus breeding establishment. This herd was established in a very modest way by Otto Battles' mother in 1898. Mrs. Battles was operating just a good average Iowa farm. Like all good mothers she was deeply interested in her family. She was especially interested in Otto. She wanted to make farm life worthwhile and attractive to him. He loved animals. She was a very practical woman. She believed the greatest rewards would come to those who studied and met the demands of the buying public. She could see a real future in the production of high class baby beef, thus her reason for selecting Aberdeen-Angus cattle. In the spring of 1907, while I was at the Iowa State College, I received a letter from Mrs. Battles inviting me to spend a day at Rosemere. She wanted me to meet Otto and look over the Aberdeen-Angus breeding herd and especially the show prospects which young Otto was fitting for the fall shows. She wanted me to frankly tell her and Otto as to whether or not their prospective show animals were good enough to take to the Iowa State Fair.

I wrote Mrs. Battles that I would be at her home on a certain day. I will never forget that day. I found in Otto a bubbling-over young man who could talk and apparently think of nothing but Aberdeen-Angus cattle. I will never forget his dear, devoted mother, how interested and hopeful she was for him to make good. His sole ambition was to breed and own the best Aberdeen-Angus herd in this or any other country. It was a truly ambitious program.

Both he and his mother wondered what chance a new and unknown exhibitor would have at our larger shows in competition with the nationally recognized herds. The name "McHenry" at that time stood at the very top in Aberdeen-Angus breeding circles. Otto wondered if he could ever show cattle good enough to beat the McHenry cattle.

After spending several hours looking over the cattle and answering hundreds of questions I informed Otto and his mother that their show prospects looked good to me, that in my opinion they were good enough to go to the Iowa State Fair and the other leading State Fairs and stock shows. While I was handing out these encouraging words I kept asking myself the question—will he bring them along in good bloom or will he over-do them in his extreme anxiety to have them ready for their first appearance at a recognized show, the Iowa State Fair? The next time I saw the Rosemere Aberdeen-Angus cattle was at the Iowa State Fair where I was judging Aberdeen-Angus cattle. In the show ring young Otto was extremely nervous. He was very anxious to give each and every one of his animals a good showing. On the whole he did a good job. When I sent him to the top he would smile and sometimes when I sent other exhibitors over him tears could be seen rolling down his cheeks. It was a great day for Otto because he smiled much more often than he wept as he, a new and unknown exhibitor, had in many classes beaten the great McHenry animals and those shown by all the other exhibitors. That was his initial show and he had made good!

The 1907 show circuit ended at the great International Show at Chicago where Otto Battles' Rosemere herd won both Grand Champion honors in the Aberdeen-Angus breeding classes. From 1907 to 1916 the Rosemere herd continued to make showring history. No other Aberdeen-Angus herd made a better record. In 1916 the Congdon & Battles partnership was formed. From that day to this the herd has grown in both point of numbers and very high individual excellence. For years we have all recognized and truly admired the Rosemere type. In no other breeding establishment has a greater fixity of the desired type been found. It has been truly the work of perhaps America's most constructive and practical live stock breeder, Otto V. Battles, who started more than thirty years ago at the very bottom of the ladder and by his own initiative, studious attitude and persistence has now reached the pinnacle of success.

What Otto V. Battles has done can be duplicated by other young men if they will work hard in studying breeding problems and ever keep in mind that live stock breeding success comes only to those who can recognize the faults and deficiences in their own animals.

Breed Builder

By DR. C. D. LOWE

Formerly a field representative for the American Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' Association, and now in charge of live stock extension work for the United States Department of Agriculture.

"To make the best better", the motto of 4-H Club work, well expresses the aims and activities of Otto V. Battles as a cattle breeder. This has always been and still is his major objective. How well he has succeeded is not a matter of opinion. Public records proclaim his success.

My personal acquaintance with Mr. Battles and knowledge of his breeding operations date back more than a quarter century. During this period my contacts have been made as a live stock development agent of a major railway system, as a state live stock extension specialist, as a field representative of the American Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' Association, and in my present capacity. On my first visit to Rosemere I saw old "Quiet Lad", his dam, Queen McHenry 47th, as well as many other foundation animals destined to make breed history, and was much impressed. Subsequent visits substantiated my original concept that here was a constructive breeder. As I travelled from one end of the country to the other I observed Rosemere products in the hands of other breeders. It was significant that such animals were proving to be so satisfactory to their owners, also to learn the high regard with which other breeders held Mr. Battles.

While I was with the Association it was my privilege to place a good many cattle of Rosemere breeding in the hands of new owners. Among such animals was the ill-fated "Idolmere", the bull shown to the grand championship of the 1919 "International" by the French Broad Farms of Tennessee.

Mr. Battles' career as a breeder has been characterized by several qualities all too seldom encountered in his chosen profession. First, he started right by investing his initial capital in only a few head of outstanding individuals which were to his liking, and as a consequence he never had to make a second start as so often is the case. Secondly, he has devoted himself to the task of constructive cattle breeding, to the practical exclusion of all other interests. Thirdly, he has consistently followed the system of exhibiting the products of his own herd, which may possibly best be expressed as "breeding his show cattle and showing his breeding cattle." And fourthly, throughout his career, his original idea of combining the art and science of breeding has persisted. In his own words, this is expressed as "pick the right foundation stock, be able to recognize merit in the animals with which you work, select towards a proper type and blend blood lines in a manner that will produce a maximum of good quality cattle and a minimum of poor ones."

A man who has exhibited five International grand champion bulls and an equal number of females and has gained the admiration and respect of a great live stock industry for his constructive breeding efforts and a reputation for fair and honorable dealing, needs no other endorsement. His works have spoken for him. Otto Battles, I salute you as a cattle breeder, as a gentleman, and as a friend.

As the Herdsman Sees It

By KALE WORKMAN

Head Herdsman at Congdon & Battles 1936, 1937, 1938 and one of the best known fitters and showmen of International winners in America.

THIS is a sad time to write for it falls to my lot to help tear down the lifetime work of one of the most patient men I have ever known. Only a few days ago we culled out of the sale offering ten old cows, some eighteen, some nineteen, and one that was twenty-one years old. To some people they would be just old cows that had outlived their usefulness but to our "Chief" they were loyal pals, "pioneers", he called them. Mr. Battles said: "These old friends came to Yakima shortly after I did. There weren't many registered cattle of any kind here in the northwest then, but they were an example for cattlemen to see that the blacks could take it".

Those cows were real pioneers, too, for I know of no Aberdeen-Angus herds in the west that were founded without a good percent of Rosemere blood or else a visit to the herd here at Yakima inspired the rancher to try Aberdeen-Angus. Those ten old cows in the last fifteen years have left in the neighborhood of 3,000 direct descendants—call half of them bulls, just think how many black calves that many bulls could sire, and you can begin to see what Rosemere has done for the Aberdeen-Angus breed in the west. For the west has used most of the cattle that Rosemere has produced—they like our type, good heavy bone, straight backs and legs, plenty of scale—quality and size combined.

I had worked for Rosemere almost a year before I fully realized the plan, policy and wisdom of Mr. Battles' method of selecting and presenting his show cattle to the public. We were picking calves for the show herd one day and our opinions differed. Then he explained to me that any calf that went into the show barn must be bred right. Both their sires and dams must have come from good producing strains and must have produced good cattle and the cross should be proven good. He explained to me that he would rather show just a good individual that he knew had the back ground to make his future owner money, than a sensational winner that wouldn't get one good calf out of a hundred.

Our show cattle are fed with the same viewpoint in mind. Nothing is "pampered". The selected calves are brought to the barn with their dams and receive all the grain they want. Those whose dams are poor milkers or old cows are put on nurse cows. We only have twelve nurse cows so you can see no calf gets two cows to "make" him. Our calves are never as fat as some of our competitors but they are well developed and it is easy enough to select the type for yearlings and two year olds. The greatest thing about this system is that no calf is over-done nor do we have any trouble breeding them when they are long yearlings although I've had some bulls and cows just as fat as the next fellow's in the show ring. I think that show yard phrase "he could win if he was just fat enough" is getting the breed nowhere fast. Whenever I hear it I think of what my dad told me at the American Royal when I told him Epponian 8th could win if he was "just a little fatter". He said, "Another year of development will make him perfect, but I can't see why fat should make him win!"

To me it has been more than just a "job" working here with all these good cattle under the capable and efficient hands of Mr. Battles. It has been a liberal education and I can truthfully say that I wouldn't trade my three years here at Rosemere for four years in any college. I hope everybody who really appreciates good live stock will study the pedigrees in this catalog and then come to Maquoketa in ample time before the sale to study the individuals and see these masterpieces of a master breeder.

A Letter from Hawaii

HAROLD K. CASTLE, well known steamship owner, sugar producer and Aberdeen-Angus breeder in the Hawaiian Islands. Also an internationally known polo player. Mr. Castle is shown above with some of his prize winning dogs and some members of his Aberdeen-Angus herd.

Dear Otto:

Answering your letter of recent date I might say that the first importation of Aberdeen - Angus to the Islands was made from Scotland in 1882, consisting of four bulls and four heifers and these cattle came by sailing vessel around Cape Horn, a voyage lasting for several months. This importation, with later shipments, also from the old country, formed the foundation of the herds which were established here in Hawaii in those early days. Importations from the United States started in 1894 since which time breeding stock has been brought in pretty consistently off and on up to the present time. For a number of years now, as you know, shipments have come in considerable numbers and almost yearly in more recent times.

We have been breeding Aberdeen-Angus on my Kaneohe Ranch since the early nineties and while quite a number of years ago experiments were made in crossing with other breeds, we came back to the Aberdeen-Angus and for about twenty years have used nothing but pure bred bulls on this ranch. For many years practically all of the importations have been made from your herd, as you know, and it has been not only a source of great satisfaction but a keen pleasure to have done business with you and I am sure that all others that have had dealings with you here feel exactly the way I do.

I cannot tell you how sorry I feel that it becomes necessary to disperse the herd. You have, through years of effort and intelligent operation, built up a wonderful establishment and it is a great loss to all constructive breeders to have such a foundation unit given up. This, of course, is not as bad as it sounds, as you will undoubtedly continue the valuable and constructive work you have been doing, in new fields where I certainly join with all others in wishing you very best success. With kindest regards and aloha from us all, Sincerely, (Signed) Harold.

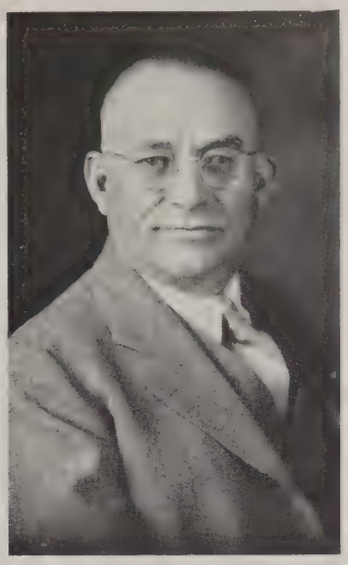
More Aberdeen-Angus are Needed in the West

By J. SHERMAN GUTTRIDGE

Of Guttridge Bros.—Extensive commercial operators of Prairie City, Oregon who also have a select pure bred herd of Aberdeen-Angus.

The dispersion of the Congdon & Battles herd of Aberdeen-Angus will be a serious loss to the entire country, but especially to the breeders on the Pacific Coast. Congdon & Battles were the first breeders of any consequence to establish a herd in the west, and have played the leading part in getting Aberdeen-Angus established in the western states. For many years the Rosemere Herd has been exhibited at all western live stock shows, and it is through these exhibitions that a great many breeders have first come into contact with the Aberdeen-Angus breed. Many range live stock operators have secured their bulls repeatedly from Congdon & Battles and always knew they could get high quality bulls from them. A large part of western cowmen do not need enough bulls to justify going into the middle West and with the dispersion of Congdon & Battles these breeders will be materially affected. That part of the United States west of the Rocky Mountains is one of the great cattle producing areas. It is this section of the country that will see a great demand for Aberdeen-Angus in the future. There are few Aberdeen-Angus in the west in comparison with the other beef breeds, and unless there are established new breeding plants, numerous range breeders will not continue to breed Aberdeen-Angus for the reason that they cannot get new bulls.

There should be no reason to lose any range herds now using Aberdeen-Angus bulls if the Aberdeen-Angus Association will devote more time and effort to promote the breed in this section of the country. There is no reason why the breed should not continue to gain popularity in the west, but this means that new herds are needed to carry on from where Congdon & Battles leave off.



To My Aberdeen-Angus Friends

By FRED HAHNE, Editor and Publisher

Aberdeen-Angus Journal, Webster City, Iowa

OTTO V. BATTLES has requested that I write something for publication in this splendid memorial to the passing of one of the greatest and one of the most important partnership arrangements that has had to do with the promotion of Aberdeen-Angus cattle since my acquaintance with the breed and the men who are responsible for its present day high standing in the beef making world. Otto refused to assign a subject. Therefore what I shall say here is of my own invention and not subject to blue penciling before publication.

To me, Otto V. Battles has been a friend. When I say, friend, I mean just that—a comrade, true blue, four square in dealings of every nature, a man that I have admired all these years because of his determination to do things, his tenacity and his modesty upon accomplishment. What I say for Otto V. Battles I can likewise say for his partner, Walter Congdon. To men like these the breed owes much of its stability, its influence, its growing favoritism among cattlemen everywhere. It has been my privilege to traverse east and west as well as north and south—all but three or four of the states and provinces of Canada. Everywhere is found the influence of this herd. Scarcely can a man travel a day north of the Mexican line without finding a Rosemere bull or a group of Rosemere bred females, and invariably the reports are good. That's a record that can only be compared with the show yard career of this great herd.

Well do I recall a day when Otto V. Battles turned to me in the International ring after an animal that he had hoped was good enough to win the purple had been turned down, and remarked, "It just about takes the heart out of a fellow to see his year's work deprived of its just due in the finals. But then, he was right in there fighting for it anyway." My reply to him then and there was simply this: "Otto, you have the greatest show record of any man on this continent. While you do not win, perhaps, as many championships as you would like to win, your cattle are among the last contenders more often than the cattle of any other breeder that I know." This is the one thing that to me has stood out above all the grand championships that it has been my pleasure to report these last eighteen years. Rosemere cattle have met all who have come and gone during these years, holding always that cherished place of final contender. It is to the men who have made this partnership possible that I wish to hand the roses today.

ed the entire United States and Canada.

In conclusion let us mention an extraordinary honor that was bestowed upon Mr. Battles in 1929 from Scotland. He was invited to judge at the great annual Perth show and sale, where some 800 animals are entered. I am under the impression that this was the first case of its kind on record. At any rate it constituted high recognition of splendid work done with Aberdeen-Angus, this side the sea, and resulted in the formation of personal friendship with leading Scottish and English breeders that are still kept alive by correspondence. Otto Battles has contributed at least as much to the advancement of public interest in pure bred live stock as any other American of his generation.

It seems little short of a calamity that such a history-making herd as this should be dispersed; and yet, who knows? Considering the interests of the breed as a whole, it may well be that the distribution of such valuable and highly concentrated material throughout the American Aberdeen-Angus body may serve as a solid basis for the maintenance, or even advancement, of existing high breed standards. Many a herd now in the formative stage—especially if it be composed of more or less divergent blood elements—may be started on the upward way by the selection of a good, strongly-bred Rosemere bull; and those who are in a position to take on a sizeable group of the Congdon & Battles females, along with such a bull, can be well assured of carrying on without abatement the established Rosemere character and quality. Opportunity, it is said, knocks at least once at every man's door. The event which this publication is designed to commemorate would seem to call for recognition at the hands of every individual in North American having at heart the well-being, the continued prosperity of the Aberdeen-Angus breed.

Congdon & Battles in the West

By OTTO V. BATTLES

ALTHOUGH the Rosemere Herd, from which the Congdon & Battles Herd mainly originated, had its beginning in Iowa—having been started there by my mother—the breeding operations of Congdon & Battles began in the fertile Yakima Valley of Washington State early in 1916. My original partner, the late Chester A. Congdon of Duluth, Minnesota, had in January of that year purchased a number of the best animals from my Rosemere herd as well as several from two other breeders of the middle west, for the purpose of establishing a herd on his ranch in the Yakima Valley. A few weeks later Mr. Congdon and I entered into an agreement whereby our two herds would be merged and I would assume complete supervision of the business.

I recall as though it were only yesterday, how during our discussion of the details of this proposed partnership Mr. Congdon stated very emphatically that it was his ambition that we develop the greatest herd of Aberdeen-Angus cattle in the world and that he felt that I was capable of doing it. I had the same ambition and to achieve it I have striven hard during the subsequent years. But be that as it may, whatever has been accomplished has been due in no small measure to the cooperation I received in the beginning from Mr. Congdon and after his death, from his heirs. This has been particularly true of his son, Walter, who is well known in the Aberdeen-Angus fraternity and who has always taken an active interest in the herd.

Mr. Congdon was a true pioneer. He felt that the far northwest and the whole west, for that matter, offered a promising field for the Doddie and that Congdon & Battles should be the first to cultivate it. I agreed with him. So we decided to tackle the venture together. We would introduce a new breed in a totally new field and we would overcome the obstacles which we knew faced us by developing a great herd, a large herd, and one which would be known around the world for its outstanding quality. We would scatter over this vast western cattle empire Aberdeen-Angus of approved type and conformation—cattle that would compare favorably with the superior type of Hereford with which the entire west was populated.

As I look back now I realize how strenuous the job has been. Unfounded and unfavorable stories which had been circulated for years about the supposed deficiencies of Aberdeen-Angus cattle could not be discredited over night nor by any kind of magic. We had actually to prove to the western range producer that contrary to what he had been told, Aberdeen-Angus cattle were hardy, good rustlers and prolific—that they came by these qualities inherently and that Aberdeen-Angus bulls would hold their own on the open range even with bulls of the horned breeds. In other words, we had to demonstrate by sheer merit that Aberdeen-Angus cattle were the most profitable cattle for the range man to produce.

Now that our labors here in behalf of the breed are about at an end, I try to visualize in my own mind whether or not they have been successful—whether we have really accomplished the things we so enthusiastically visioned in 1916. At first thought, the answer is no, because we have not yet come anywhere near giving the breed the place it deserves in this great western cattle country. But in a more optimistic mood I consider the other side of the question and I am encouraged. I recall how when I first came to the west I was told on every hand by people who were familiar with conditions here that they wished me luck in introducing my breed but that they thought that I was butting my head against a stone wall because Aberdeen-Angus cattle were not suited to this country, particularly to range conditions, etc. And I recall my reply, which was that I did not believe the people of the west had had an opportunity to properly study Aberdeen-Angus cattle and that they, therefore, were not familiar with the fact that Aberdeen-Angus are inherently the hardiest of all cattle—that they had to rustle in the rugged hills of Scotland, where they originated, in order to exist, and that it was my purpose to demonstrate these and other superior qualities to the people of the west to the end that these characteristics would be recognized and accepted. I recall that for a number of years the Congdon & Battles show herds campaigned the western circuits as the only Aberdeen-Angus cattle on exhibition—covering in the beginning shows without even an Aberdeen-Angus classification and without prize money for Aberdeen-Angus cattle; and how our cattle were erroneously referred to as from this or that cross with everything from a Galloway to a buffalo. They were most frequently referred to, however, as Galloways. This breed had been used some in the west but apparently without gaining friends, if the chance conversations we overheard amongst fair goers were to be given any weight. But gradually the picture changed. These same Congdon & Battles show herds were going east and winning at such important places as Kansas City and Chicago. Surely there must be something to these cattle after all. Perhaps it would be good business to give them a trial. And so the idea took hold and began slowly to spread. Aberdeen-Angus cattle began to be recognized for what they really were. We were putting our bulls on the range and wherever they went they made friends to the end that it wasn't long before our demand from this source outgrew our ability to supply it and we brought in numerous shipments of bulls from the middle west for our customers, and others bought directly from there. This condition encouraged the starting of other pure bred herds in the west so we began to supply pure bred breeding stock—a trade which has steadily grown until today there are a great many pure bred herds in the west which were established with a Congdon & Battles foundation. During the time we have been in business here we have actually bred and sold over 5000 Aberdeen-Angus cattle ourselves, not to mention the thousands that have been spread over the west from other herds which were started with Congdon & Battles cattle. So, after all, I like to at least give myself the satisfaction of feeling that our pioneering in the west has borne fruit. In fact, I believe the results are now becoming acutely apparent. I know that our own business reflects this condition. The many fine letters I have received from western people since our dispersion sale has become known registering regret, disappointment, fear for the future without our leadership, etc., make me feel like a deserter from the ranks. I know, of course, however, that there are others who will carry the work on and I hope that some amongst them will take up where Congdon & Battles leave off, and lead the way as we have tried to do toward an Aberdeen-Angus empire on the Pacific Coast. It is a green field and one which holds unlimited possibilities. In making this statement I am not fooling myself by believing that Aberdeen-Angus cattle are going to crowd the Hereford entirely off the range. This breed has been dominant in the range country too long for anything like that to happen. But there is a place for both breeds and for Aberdeen-Angus to be a success it is not necessary that the big open range owners change over to Aberdeen-Angus. Some, of course, have done this and others will, but the really big field for the Aberdeen-Angus in the west lies with the small range owner and the thousands of farm owners such as are found in the middle west and similar cattle producing sections. With these two classes of producers the Doddie is becoming increasingly popular and they alone assure a promising future for the breed in this part of the country.

HER MAJESTY 2d—1908 International Grand Champion Female. Exhibited by Otto V. Battles.

GLENFOIL THICK SET 2d—This early Rosemere sire is the only bull of any breed capable of winning four International Championships in succession—three of them Grand Championships. It was through this great show bull that Rosemere's unparalleled sire, Prizemere 9th, descended on the dam's side. Glenfoil Thick Set 2d was shown to the 1907, 1908 and 1909 International Grand Championships at Chicago by Otto V. Battles.

1907, 1908 International Grand Champion Herd. Exhibited by Otto V. Battles.

OAKVILLE QUIET LAD—The 1910 International Grand Champion Bull exhibited by Otto V. Battles. This great son of Black Woodlawn is the father of Rosemere breeding. Today in the herd are found very few animals that do not bear the influence of this phenomenally prepotent sire. There is one Oakville Quiet Lad cow in the sale. Probably the last living daughter of this great bull.

BLACK WOODLAWN—As the sire which had the earliest influence on the herd, Black Woodlawn is known as the foundation sire of Rosemere breeding. Probably more herds have been established on Black Woodlawn blood than that of any other bull in the history of the breed in this country. He is considered the greatest Aberdeen-Angus bull of all time in America.

PRIZEMERE 9th—An International prize winner himself—Prizemere 9th was the most prepotent sire ever used in the Rosemere Herd. He was sired by Meraman of Tierra Alta, an outstanding grandson of the International Grand Champion, Kloman, and his dam was that great Oakville Quiet Lad cow—Pride of Rosemere 14th. It is doubtful if the International Show Records reveal for the number of animals sired, as high a percentage of winners by one sire as is shown by the winnings of the sons and daughters of Prizemere 9th. There are two very highly prized daughters of Prizemere 9th in the sale, one of them none other than Pride of Rosemere 67th, the 1926 International Grand Champion Female.

IDOLMERE—1919 International Grand Champion Bull. Sired by Oakville Quiet Lad. The sale offering includes three outstanding cows sired by Idolmere 4th, a full brother to Idolmere.

MERAMAN OF TIERRA ALTA—Grandson of the International Grand Champion, Kloman, was introduced into the herd in 1916 as an outcross on daughters of Oakville Quiet Lad. Although his life in the herd was short he left many outstanding daughters—two of which are included in the sale offering, Kindness C. B. 2d and Pride C. B. 36th. Meraman of Tierra Alta was the sire also of that phenomenal sire of show winners—Prizemere 9th.

QUEEN OF ROSEMERE 5th—1917 International Junior Champion Female. Queen of Rosemere 5th was one of Rosemere's greatest producing cows. She was the granddam of the great Congdon & Battles' herd sire, Queenmere 70th, and during her life in the herd was a consistent producer of show winners. She is represented in the sale also by eight granddaughters, Queen of Rosemere 107th, Queen of Rosemere 101st, Queen of Rosemere 122d, Queen of Rosemere 158th, Queen of Rosemere 67th, Queen of Rosemere 258th, Queen of Rosemere 277th and Queen of Rosemere 309th, as well as one outstanding daughter, Queen of Rosemere 121st all of which show the grand characteristics of this remarkable producing cow.

FIRST PRIZE AGED HERD 1916 CHICAGO INTERNATIONAL—This champion herd was headed by Knight of Rosemere, maternal grandsire of Prizemere 32d and also in the group was Queen of Rosemere 5th shown above, whose record proves her to have been one of Rosemere's top producing cows.

QUALITY LAD OF ROSEMERE 3d—A Chicago International First Prize Winner in 1916. One of the great breeding sons of Oakville Quiet Lad.

BLACKMERE 16th—1922 Chicago International Junior Champion bull. Sired by Prizemere 9th. Blackmere 16th was a valued herd sire at Rosemere for many years, and descended from the great Blackbird family which has been responsible for so many of the Rosemere Blackbird winners. There are several Blackbirds in the sale offering which come from this same line which originated with Blackbird of Woodlawn 13th.

FIRST PRIZE AGED HERD——Chicago International of 1922. This outstanding group was headed by Prizemere 9th, Rosemere's great show and breeding bull.

BARBARA C. B. 2d—Junior and Grand Champion Female, 1923 American Royal. She was a granddaughter of the phenomenal Barbara Woodson and came from the same line of Barbaras that has produced Rosemere's many, many Barbara winners.

BLACKBIRD OF ROSEMERE 56th—This exceptional Rosemere show cow was third at Chicago three years in succession and was a member of the 1926 International First Prize Get of Sire. Her great breeding son, Blackmere 97th, himself an International First Prize winner, is a member of the sale offering.

FIRST PRIZE PRIZEMERE 9th GET OF SIRE at World's Fair and Chicago International of 1926. The animals in this wonderful group were Prizemere 32d, his full sister, Pride of Rosemere 67th, the 1926 Chicago International Grand Champion Female, Pride of Rosemere 59th and Blackbird of Rosemere 56th. Prizemere 32d will have more get in the dispersion than any other bull—Pride of Rosemere 67th is herself a member of the offering and has a number of close descendants in the offering, Pride of Rosemere 59th and Blackbird of Rosemere 56th also have a number of close descendants in the offering, every one of which are good and which will prove, better than anything else, the fact that great show and breeding qualities have been perpetuated in this herd.

BARBARA OF ROSEMERE 33d—International Junior and Reserve Grand Champion Female in 1922 and dam of Barbara of Rosemere 100th which was International Grand Champion Female in 1933. Another one of Congdon & Battles early Barbara champions—probably the most distinguished single family of Rosemere Aberdeen-Angus.

PRIDE OF ROSEMERE 67th—1926 International Grand Champion Female. One of Rosemere's greatest show and breeding cows. She is a full sister to Prizemere 32d, the late premier sire of the breed, and is a member of the sale group. She also has two daughters, a son, and one granddaughter in the sale and they are of the best.

PRIDE OF ROSEMERE 59TH—An International First Prize Winner in 1924 and 1925 and a member of the 1926 First Prize Prizemere 9th get of sire at the Chicago International and at the World's Fair at Philadelphia. There are a good many Prides in the sale from this same line of breeding.

BLACKMERE 62d—Reserve Champion Bull 1929 Chicago International. Sired by Prizemere 32d and out of that grand producing cow, Brodus Blackcap 13th. Blackcap of Rosemere 83d of the sale offering is a full sister to Blackcapmere 62d. This is the same Blackcap breeding as Blackcap Eileenmere 3d, one of Congdon & Battles present day herd sires, and Blackcapmere 113th, the 1937 American Royal Grand Champion bull.

FIRST PRIZE AGED HERD—1928 Chicago International. Every one of the winners in this superb group has close descendants or close relatives in the present sale offering. Three of the group were sired by Prizemere 9th and two by Prizemere 32d.

FIRST PRIZE PAIR OF CALVES—1927 International. Sired by Prizemere 32d.

BARBARA OF ROSEMERE 64th—1928 International Junior and Reserve Grand Champion Female. Sired by Prizemere 32d. Barbara of Rosemere 64th was not only a great show cow in her own right but was also the dam of Barbarian of Rosemere 64th, the 1933 International Grand Champion Bull. She has one daughter, Barbara of Rosemere 164th, in the offering and one granddaughter, Barbara of Rosemere 163d, as well as numerous other close relatives all of which show great promise.

FIRST PRIZE PAIR OF CALVES—1928 International. Sired by Prizemere 32d.

PRIZEMERE 125th—Undefeated Junior Bull Calf for 1928 season, including the Chicago International. Sired by Prizemere 32d. The Pride breeding which produced this outstanding winner came through Etta's Pride 3d and is represented in the present offering by a number of good ones. Now at the head of the select herd maintained at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

PRIZEMERE 138th—First Prize Summer Yearling 1929 Chicago International. Sired by Prizemere 32d. The dam of this International winner, Kindness C. B. 2d, sells in the sale with a bull calf at foot sired by Eileenmere 157th, good young son of the grand champion, Eileenmere 85th, of Tolan fame.

BLACKBIRD OF ROSEMERE 164th—Grand Champion Female at 1935 American Royal. Most of the Blackbirds in the sale are of this same line of breeding. Sired by Prizemere 32d.

PRIZEMERE 141st—Grand Champion Bull 1933 American Royal. First Prize Aged Bull 1933 Chicago International. Sired by Prizemere 32d. Now at the head of the herd of Earl M. Dale of Blythedale, Missouri.

FIRST PRIZE PRIZEMERE 32d GET OF SIRE—1928 Chicago International.

PRIZEMERE 50th—First Prize Aged Bull 1928 Chicago International. Sired by Prizemere 9th. Now in use in the herd of J. Omar Cole, Peru, Indiana.

FIRST PRIZE PRIZEMERE 32d GET OF SIRE—1932 American Royal.

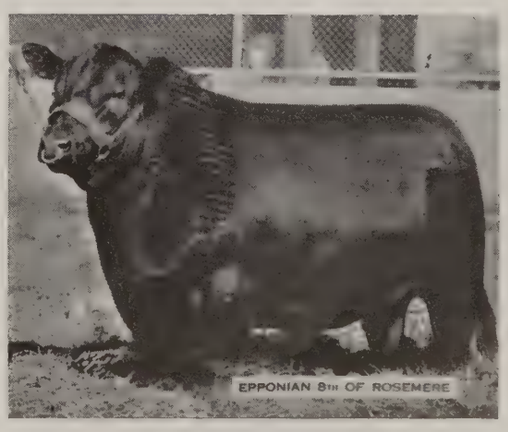
BLACKCAPMERE 113th—First prize three year old bull, 1937 Chicago International, Senior and Grand Champion Aberdeen-Angus bull, American Royal 1937. Sired by Eileenmere 61st. The dam of this great show bull, Blackcap of Rosemere 25th, sells in the sale with a beautiful heifer calf at foot by Barbarian of Rosemere 86th. Blackcapmere 113th now heads the herd of Mr. J. C. Roebling of Savannah, Georgia.

BARBARA OF ROSEMERE 47th—This prize winning daughter of Idolmere 4th, owned by Edwards Bros. of Watford, Ontario, Canada, is the dam of the 1937 Chicago International Grand Champion Bull, Bandolier of Anoka 6th. There are three daughters of Idolmere 4th in the sale consignment.



EPPONIAN 8th OF ROSEMERE—1936 Chicago International Grand Champion Bull. Now owned by Mr. Alex B. Hagner of Warrenton, Virginia. Epponian 8th's dam, Epponia C. B. 2d sells in the dispersion and should have at her side by sale time a full brother or full sister to Epponian 8th.

BARBARA OF ROSEMERE 170th—This beautiful Barbara heifer by Eileenmere 61st (the sire of Epponian 8th the 1936 International Grand Champion Bull) was hard to beat last year as a senior calf and is even better now. Her dam, Barbara of Rosemere 93d, a full sister to Barbara of Rosemere 64th, the 1928 International Junior and Reserve Grand Champion, is also a member of the sale offering. This photograph taken at the farm April 6, 1938.

BACKCAP OF ROSEMERE 112th—Also by Eileenmere 61st has been a successful member of our first show string for the past two years. She is the best prospect we know of for the cow class this year—one of the best, in fact, that we have seen for a long time. Photograph taken at the farm April 6, 1938.

IRENE OF ROSEMERE 53d—This is another good daughter of Eileenmere 61st which was a member of our first herd last year. She is a grand prospect for the junior yearling class at this year's shows. Photographed at the farm April 6, 1938.

BARBARA OF ROSEMERE 163d—Is a daughter of the 1928 Junior and Reserve Grand Champion Female, Barbara of Rosemere 64th, and is sired by Queenmere 70th, Congdon & Battles outstanding sire of show and breeding animals. Barbara of Rosemere 163d has the background to breed on. Photograph taken April 6, 1938. at the farm.

THESE FOUR BEAUTIFUL HEIFERS are of the famous Rosemere Barbara family which has produced more International winners than any other family of the breed in recent years. They are included in the auction. Photo taken at the farm April 6, 1938.

PRIZEMERE 387th—Undefeated two year old bull at all of the major shows of 1937, except the Chicago International where he stood second to the grand champion bull of the show. Photo taken at the farm April 6, 1938. This magnificent show bull is one of the last sons of Prizemere 32d to be sold and is considered a star attraction of the dispersion offering. Prizemere 387th has a full sister also in the sale offering, the two year old heifer, Pride of Rosemere 484th.

EPPONIAN 9th of ROSEMERE—By Prizemere 32d, the late premier sire of the breed, gave a good account of himself on our western show circuit last year. He is a good show prospect this year also. He is a full brother to Epponia C. B. 2d, the dam of Epponian 8th of Rosemere, 1936 Chicago International Grand Champion Bull. Photo taken April 6, 1938.

PRIZEMERE 443d—By Eileenmere 61st was a member of our first show string last year and is an excellent prospect for the senior yearling class this year. His dam, Pride of Rosemere 150th, has been a dependable producer of show cattle in the herd. Photo taken at the farm April 6, 1938.

EPPONIAN 11th of ROSEMERE—Another good young show bull—is a full brother to Epponian 9th shown above and is, likewise, a full brother to Epponia C. B. 2d the dam of Epponian 8th of Rosemere. These two Epponian bulls should be attractive propositions from both a show and breeding standpoint. We know they will carry on the tradition of Rosemere. This photo was also taken here at the farm April 6, 1938.

GROUP THREE PRIZEMERE 32d BULLS—These three young show bulls by Prizemere 32d, the late Premier Sire of the Breed, are included in the auction. Photo taken at the farm April 6, 1938.

GROUP TWO YEAR OLD HEIFERS—This is a photograph taken here at the farm April 6, 1938 of Group VIII of the sale consignment—the two year old heifers. They are by such well known Rosemere sires as Eileen mere 61st, Blackmere 97th, Queenmere 70th, Blackcap Eileenmere 3d, and Ericmere 60th. There is also one heifer in this group by Prizemere 32d.

PRIDE OF ROSEMERE 342d—Is the only daughter in the sale of Prizemere 44th a great Prizemere 9th show bull. Pride of Rosemere 342d is a granddaughter of Pride of Rosemere 67th, the 1926 Chicago International Grand Champion Female. Her pedigree represents a concentration of Prizemere 9th blood which cannot be over-rated. Photo taken at the farm April 6, 1938.

PRIDE OF ROSEMERE 247th—Here is an excellent producing daughter of that great show and breeding cow, Pride of Rosemere 67th, the 1926 Chicago International Grand Champion Female. Pride of Rosemere 247th resembles her remarkable dam in every way. As you will note from the photograph which was taken here at the farm April 6, 1938, the resemblance in appearance is very marked. She will be well along in calf sale day to the service of the champion sire, Eileenmere 61st.

GROUP OF YOUNG HERD BULLS—This is a photograph taken here at the farm April 6, 1938, of Group III of the sale consignment—the young herd bull prospects. Every one of them is good enough in breeding and individuality to be classed as a potential herd sire of high merit.

GROUP OF TOP COWS—This is a photograph taken here at the ranch April 6, 1938 of Group IV of the sale consignment—Breeding Cows. We believe the photo speaks for itself as will these magnificent producing matrons when they are seen sale day. Nothing we could say about them could do them justice. They are a living picture of Angus perfection.

EPPONIA C. B. 2d—This is the dam of Epponian 8th of Rosemere, the 1936 International Grand Champion Bull. She was a show cow herself being a member of Congdon & Battles First Prize Aged Herd at Chicago in 1933. Epponia C. B. 2d will sell in the dispersion with a calf at her side which will be a full brother or full sister to Epponian 8th. We don't believe we need to tell anyone that this is one of those wonderful producing cows that will breed on. She has two full brothers in the sale offering which are also show bulls. Photo taken at the farm April 6, 1938.

PRIDE OF ROSEMERE 397th—This good producing daughter of Prizemere 32d is also from one of the best Rosemere Pride strains on the dam's side. She is a half sister to Prizemere 443d, one of the young show bulls in the offering, and her last year's calf is a summer yearling show heifer also in the offering. Pride of Rosemere 397th is due to calve before the sale to the service of Eileenmere 157th. Congdon & Battles young herd bull sired by Tolan's champion, Eileenmere 85th. Photo taken at the farm April 6, 1938.

GROUP OF OLDER BREEDING COWS—This is a photograph taken April 6, 1938 of Group VI of the sale consignment and represents the oldest cows of the offering. Amongst them will be found probably the only living daughter of Oakville Quiet Lad, two daughters of Meraman of Tierra Alta, and two daughters of the famous Prizemere 9th. These cows have made breed history—not once—but many times.

PRIDE OF ROSEMERE 387th—This is another great daughter of Pride of Rosemere 67th, the 1926 Chicago International Grand Champion Cow, and sired by that champion sire, Eileenmere 61st. This is a combination of championship breeding that is hard to equal. Pride of Rosemere 387th is due to calve in May to the service of Eileenmere 157th, good breeding son of Tolan's champion, Eileenmere 85th. Photo taken at the farm April 6, 1938.

QUEEN OF ROSEMERE 87th—This beautiful, deep-bodied Blackmere 29th cow is as good an individual as anything in the dispersion offering. We don't have to tell you she is good. She recommends herself. She is a typical Rosemere female and is due to calve before sale time to the service of Eileenmere 61st. Photo taken at the farm April 6, 1938.

BLACKCAP OF ROSEMERE 95th—This good Rosemere Blackcap matron is a full sister to Blackcap of Rosemere 112th, the top show cow of the offering. Blackcap 95th was grand champion on the California circuit more times than we can count. Her first calf, Blackcapmere 146th, was a member of our 1936 first string and is now in service at Hamilton Farms, Gladstone, New Jersey. Her second calf is Blackcapmere 157th, the junior yearling show bull, Lot 11 in the sale offering. Blackcap 95th is due to calve the latter part of July to the service of Eileenmere 157th. Photo taken at the farm April 6, 1938.

GROUP FOUR YEAR OLD BREEDING COWS—This is a photograph taken here at the farm April 6, 1938, of Group VII of the sale consignment. It is the largest group of the sale and one of the most desirable from many standpoints. For instance, there are 23 heifers in the group sired by Prizemere 32d and such other famous Rosemere sires as Eileenmere 61st, Blackmere 97th, and Queenmere 70th are also represented. Most of these heifers are well along with calf to the service of Eileenmere 157th, son of Tolan's grand champion, Eileenmere 85th, and some of them will calve before sale time.

QUEENMERE 299th—Is the only son in the sale of Barbarian of Rosemere 64th, 1933 Chicago International Grand Champion Bull. This is a real show bull—a good prospect for the summer yearling class this year. His dam, Queen of Rosemere 102d is also in the sale. She will be found in that great group of Prizemere 32d breeding cows. This is a grand producing strain. Photo taken at the farm April 6, 1938.

BLACKCAPMERE 157th—This smooth, deep son of Queenmere 70th is a top prospect for the junior yearling class this year. His dam, Blackcap of Rosemere 95th, a great show cow in her own right is also in the offering. Queenmere 70th has been recognized in the Rosemere Herd as a sire of good ones that will breed on. We recommend this Blackcap breeding, too. It comes through old Broadus Blackcap 13th, one of the good ones of all time. Photo taken here at the farm April 6, 1938.

GROUP OF HEIFER CALVES—This is a photograph taken here at the farm April 6, 1938, of Group IX of the sale consignment and is made up of 1937 heifer calves. In breeding and individuality they will measure up to anything in the offering. They are sired by such famous present day Rosemere sires as Eileenmere 61st, Barbarian of Rosemere 64th, Queenmere 70th, Blackmere 97th, Ericmere 60th and Barbarian of Rosemere 106th.

Herd Bulls

PRIZEMERE 32d—Was accorded the distinction of being the greatest sire of his time. He was not only a great sire but a prolific one. The majority of the animals in this dispersion are by Prizemere 32d, one reason for this being that his offspring were the kind we held back to build up the herd and carry on the Rosemere tradition, and the other reason being that he was such a sure sire. This characteristic of being a sure sire of good ones, breeds on in his offspring. A perusal of the International winnings of his get convinces us that he was the greatest sire ever used in the Rosemere Herd—or in any herd, for that matter.

OTHER PRESENT DAY SIRES:

Some of Congdon & Battles' other present day sires for whom we had no photographs are Blackcap Eileenmere 3d, a good breeding son of the International Grand Champion, Eileenmere 15th.

Blackmere 195th, one of our youngest herd bulls. A son of Eileenmere 61st and out of that great Blackbird strain which comes through Blackbird of Woodlawn 13th.

Eileenmere 157th, a great breeding son of Tolan's Grand Champion, Eileenmere 85th.

Ericmere 45th, a good breeding son of Comere 8th (a Ballindalloch Coquette) out of a daughter of Ectessa, the dam of Eileenmere 61st.

Ericmere 69th, a sure breeding son of Prizemere 32d out of Eline 8th of Page. This good outcross sire has been used in our herd for several years.

QUEENMERE 70th—This great son of the Oakville Quiet Lad bull, Prizemere 5th, and out of a daughter of the famous Rosemere show and producing cow, Queen of Rosemere 5th, ranks next only to Prizemere 32d and Eileenmere 61st as a present day sire in the Congdon & Battles' herd. Many of the show cattle in the offering are by him as are a lot of the splendid producing cows whose pedigrees appear in the following pages.

EILEENMERE 61st—This champion producing son of Tolan's great champion sire, Eileenmere 32d, needs no introduction. Recent International Shows have seen many of his winning get, including the 1936 Grand Champion, Epponian 8th of Rosemere. Many of the present offering, both in the show cattle and in the great producing females, are sired by Eileenmere 61st.

BLACKMERE 97th—A Chicago International first prize winner in 1930, this good son of Prizemere 32d out of the great show cow, Blackbird of Rosemere 56th, has been a consistent producer of good calves in our herd. There are a number of animals in the sale offering by this dependable sire.

PRIZEMERE 101st—A grandson of Prizemere 9th and the sire of Barb
Rosemere 64th (Below).

BARBARIAN OF ROSEMERE 64th—1933 Chicago International Grand Ch
Bull, was sired by Prizemere 101st, himself an International First Prize winne though we lost this great Barbara bull through death before he had seen mu vice in the herd, there are a few of his get in the dispersion offering and th outstanding good ones.

INTERNATIONAL RECORD OF AWARDS OF OTTO V. BATTLES AND CONGDON & BATTLES

THE winnings given on the following pages are taken from the official records of the International Live Stock Exposition and include only animals exhibited by Otto V. Battles and Congdon & Battles. They do not take into consideration the International winnings made by Rosemere cattle shown by other exhibitors, nor do they include the literally thousands of winnings made by Rosemere cattle at all of the other major shows of this country and Canada, such shows as the American Royal, Eastern States Exposition, World's Fair at Philadelphia, Ak-Sar-Ben, Iowa State Fair, Illinois State Fair, Great Western Live Stock Show, Pacific International, Texas Centennial and many, many others. It would be impossible to tabulate these winnings within the limited confines of these pages.

Inasmuch as the International has always been considered the final court of appeal, we feel that winnings made there give the best proof we can furnish of the individual merit of animals which we have bred and shown. We believe, also, that this tabulation of the International winnings of the animals from our herd will furnish the best basis for pedigree study that we can supply. If our readers will link the names of the winners listed in these tabulations, and the names of their sires and dams, with the names appearing in the pedigrees of this catalog, we believe they will find that the tabulations make possible a pedigree study of real significance, of much more value, for instance, than any footnotes we could write which—because of the extreme uniformity of Rosemere cattle in both breeding and individuality—could only result in tiresome repetition.

It must be remembered, of course, that the Rosemere breeding policy has been centered around the concentration of characteristics of outstanding individuals and that this has been accomplished by a carefully studied system of line breeding. Another important thing to be borne in mind in this study is that the practical rebuilding of the herd in 1907 was accomplished by the introduction of outstanding show animals. The new herd was, in other words, founded on the blood of great show cattle. By the preservation of this blood through our system of breeding we have, during subsequent years, been able to produce not only all of our own show cattle, but to sell a number each year to other exhibitors. We have also been able to fix a type and conformation which is known the world over for its dependability.

Another fact that stands out conspicuously in the Rosemere pedigrees and which is also revealed in the tabulation of International winnings is that they prove beyond a question of doubt the genetic law that like begets like, as revealed in the pedigrees of our show cattle from year to year. Practically every animal which has gone into our show herds for years has been the progeny of former Rosemere show cattle and not infrequently they have been the result of a direct succession of International champions on the dam's side of the pedigree alone. As a case in point, let us examine the pedigree of Barbarian of Rosemere 64th, Grand Champion Bull as a two year old at the Chicago International of 1933.

His dam, Barbara of Rosemere 64th, was Junior and Reserve Grand Champion Female as a junior calf at the Chicago International of 1928 and her dam, Barbara of Rosemere 40th, was Junior Champion as a summer calf at the Chicago International of 1924. Thus we have an unbroken line of three generations of International Champions and this is not an isolated case amongst Rosemere pedigrees by any means. We were unfortunate in losing Barbarian of Rosemere 64th through death before he had seen much service in the herd.

But after all, we realize that our cattle themselves which you will see at sale time, must furnish the standard by which you will determine whether or not our breeding plan has been a success and as far as we are concerned we are willing to stand or fall on your judgment at that time. We are anxious that you should understand, however, that the major portion of these cattle will be presented at sale time in just their everyday working clothes. In other words, the breeding herd has not received any special fitting for the occasion. Of course there are some show animals and show prospects in the sale and these have been carried on full feed for some time with the idea of preparing them for this year's shows. They will be in the proper condition at sale time to go to the early shows and give good accounts of themselves.

TO make comparisons easier and to facilitate the movement of animals through the ring we have adopted a group plan of cataloging and selling. The various groups will be stabled or penned together at the sale grounds. By careful sorting we have, to the best of our ability, put together in the different groups the animals which are most uniform in breeding and conformation. The animals of each group will be sold separately but all of those of one group will be sold before any from another group enter the ring.

GROUP II—SHOW CATTLE

THIS group constitutes the entire show herd. Included in it are animals which have already been exhibited with success at the major shows of the country, including the Chicago International, and the younger animals which have been under preparation for this year's shows. All of these show animals and show prospects have had the same fitting which we always give our show cattle. In other words, they will carry the same condition at sale time as our own show cattle have always carried at that time of the year. They will, therefore, be ready to go to the early shows and render a good account of themselves.

Amongst the older animals that have already been shown are such outstanding individuals as Prizemere 387th, Lot 14, undefeated two year old at all of the major shows of 1937 except the Chicago International where he stood second to the Grand Champion Bull of the show, which was also from a Rosemere dam owned by Edwards Bros. of Ontario, Canada. Other great bulls in this group are Epponian 9th and Epponian 11th of Rosemere—full brothers to each other and full brothers to Epponia C. B. 2d, the dam of our 1936 International Grand Champion Bull, Epponian 8th of Rosemere. Both of these Epponian bulls should be decided attractions from the standpoint of show bulls and outstanding herd sire prospects. Epponian 9th will show in the three year old class this year and Epponian 11th will be a senior yearling.

Prizemere 443d, another member of this group, is by Eileenmere 61st—already the sire of International champions. Prizemere 443d gave an excellent account of himself in the summer calf class at all of the big shows last year and is a good prospect for the senior yearling class this year. Another star attraction in this offering is the summer calf, Queenmere 299th, sired by the International Grand Champion of 1933, Barbarian of Rosemere 64th. Queenmere 299th is an extremely promising young bull both from the standpoint of a show bull and a great herd sire. There are many other fine bulls in this group, but we must pass on to the females.

Here we find the great young show cow, Blackcap of Rosemere 112th, which has been a successful member of our show herd for the past two years and which is the best prospect that we know of for the cow class this year—one of the best prospects we have ever fitted, for that matter. She is a daughter of that great sire of show animals, Eileenmere 61st.

Three more outstanding young females in this group by Eileenmere 61st are Barbara of Rosemere 170th, Irene of Rosemere 53d, and Novice 28th of Rosemere. Barbara of Rosemere 170th was hard to beat last year in the senior calf class and is much better now—a great prospect we think for the senior yearling class this year. She is what you might call a "chip off the old block" because she is typical of the Rosemere Barbaras which in recent years have produced more winners than any other one strain in the Rosemere Herd. In connection with this, it is interesting to note that in this particular group there is one daughter of Barbara of Rosemere 64th, three granddaughters of Barbara of Rosemere 64th and one daughter of a full sister to Barbara of Rosemere 64th. As will be remembered, Barbara of Rosemere 64th was the Chicago International Junior and Reserve Grand Champion female in 1928 and was also the dam of Barbarian of Rosemere 64th, the 1933 Chicago International Grand Champion bull. The Rosemere Barbara family as well as the other great Rosemere producing strains, is a convincing demonstration of the way Rosemere animals perpetuate the characteristics of their ancestors which were great show and producing animals in their own time.

Another outstanding attraction amongst the show females is Ectessa 4th which will show in the aged cow class this year. She is a full sister to the famous sire, Eileenmere 61st and is with calf to the service of Epponian 9th of Rosemere, the same combination of breeding which produced the 1936 International Grand Champion, Epponian 8th of Rosemere. There are numerous other attractive females in this group which will be appreciated when they are seen at sale time.

GROUP III—YOUNG HERD BULLS

THIS group is made up of twenty-two of the best young bulls we could pick from sixty of approximately the same age. In our opinion, they are a very select lot of bulls and every one of them is good enough in both individuality and breeding to be classed as a herd sire prospect. We have had a hard time holding them for the dispersion sale and could have sold them all privately at attractive prices. But we were anxious to have at least a few of our best young bulls go through the sale. Like all of the Rosemere cattle, they must be seen to be really appreciated.

GROUP IV—BREEDING COWS

WE are used to seeing a lot of good cows together in the Rosemere pastures, but after we had selected these twenty we were almost surprised ourselves with the outstanding excellence of the group in every particular. In our opinion it is doubtful if twenty better cows of any breed could be assembled in America or anywhere else and a prominent Aberdeen-Angus authority who recently visited us from the east, expressed the same opinion. Let us point out just a few outstanding members of the group. For instance there are two daughters (Lots 63 and 66) and one granddaughter (Lot 65) of Pride of Rosemere 67th, the 1926 International Grand Champion Female; two daughters (Lots 55 and 56) of Eileenmere 15th, the 1929 International Grand Champion Bull; and one daughter (Lot 64) of Prizemere 101st, the sire of Barbarian of Rosemere 64th, International Grand Champion Bull of 1933. This cow is also a sister on the dam's side to the great two year old show bull of the offering, Prizemere 387th (Lot 14). Then there are two daughters (Lots 54 and 66) of the champion sire, Eileenmere 61st and eleven by that greatest of all Rosemere sires, Prizemere 32d, the recent premier sire of the breed. Amongst these daughters of Prizemere 32d is Epponia C. B. 2d (Lot 58), dam of the great International Grand Champion Bull of 1936, Epponian 8th of Rosemere, and she will be due to calve before sale day to Eileenmere 61st, sire of the 1936 International Grand Champion Bull. In other words, Epponia C. B. 2d should have by her side sale day a full brother or full sister to Epponian 8th of Rosemere.

GROUP V—BREEDING COWS

THIS group might easily be rated as the most distinguished lot of the whole offering, due to the fact that every cow in it is sired by that greatest of all Rosemere sires, Prizemere 32d. Individually they compare favorably with the group just preceding them in this catalog and as producers they have no superiors in the herd. Among the individuals in this group will be found such cows as Barbara of Rosemere 93d, a full sister to the International Champion and champion producing Barbara of Rosemere 64th; and Barbara of Rosemere 117th, a daughter of Barbara of Rosemere 64th. Then there is Blackbird of Rosemere 169th a three quarters sister to our recent two year old show cow, Blackbird of Rosemere 164th, the 1936 American Royal Grand Champion cow. Blackcap of Rosemere 83d of this group is a full sister to Blackcapmere 62d, Reserve Junior Champion bull at the 1929 Chicago International. Eileen of Rosemere 17th is a direct descendant of the International Grand Champion cow, Eileen Lass—which was the foundation cow of all the great Eileenmeres. There are also in this group two great granddaughters (Lots 82 and 83) of Rita Pride, one of the great Pride foundation cows of the herd through which many great show cattle have descended.

Cow calf at foot sired by Eileenmere 61st.

GROUP VI—OLDER BREEDING COWS

THIS group of seventeen comprises some of the older cows of the herd but we believe they are none the less valuable. They are by the sires which really laid the foundation for the greatness of Rosemere. Amongst them will be found probably the only living daughter of the father of Rosemere breeding, Oakville Quiet Lad, and this cow still has the appearance of an animal in her prime. In this group there are also two daughters of Meraman of Tierra Alta, the greatest outcross sire ever used in the herd, and sire of the famous Prizemere 9th. One of these daughters of Meraman, Kindness C. B. 2d, is the dam of Prizemere 138th, First Prize Senior Bull Calf at the Chicago International of 1929. She is also the dam of Pride of Rosemere 289th, First Prize Senior Heifer Calf and Junior Champion Female at the Chicago International of 1932. Kindness C. B. 2d has a bull calf now by Eileenmere 157th which will sell at her side sale day and he is a real show prospect. In this group will be found, also, three daughters of Idolmere 4th, a full brother to Idolmere, the Grand Champion Bull of the 1919 Chicago International. One of these is Idessa of Rosemere 4th, a cow which almost invariably has twin calves and she should calve again before sale time. Probably the two greatest attractions of this group, however, are two daughters of Prizemere 9th, the bull which for the number of calves he sired produced the highest percentage of International winners of any bull of the breed. One of these daughters is none other than the 1926 International Grand Champion Female, Pride of Rosemere 67th (a full sister to the premier sire, Prizemere 32d) and the other one is Blackcap of Rosemere 25th, the dam of Blackcapmere 113th, 1937 American Royal Grand Champion Bull. Blackcap of Rosemere 25th has produced many outstanding winners.

GROUP VII—FOUR YEAR OLD HEIFERS

THIS group, which is the largest group in the offering, is made up of the heifers we have been holding back for the past several years to eventually replace the older breeding cows and they are a very select lot in both breeding and individuality. For instance, twenty-three of them are daughters of the premier sire, Prizemere 32d, and the remainder are by such famous Rosemere sires as Eileenmere 61st, Queenmere 70th and Blackmere 97th. Most of these heifers are pasture bred to Eileenmere 157th, good breeding son of the grand champion, Eileenmere 85th, and out of one of the Tolan Evergreen cows. Eileenmere 157th was purchased two years ago from the Tolan herd to be used as one of our chief herd sires. We don't know that we can say anything more for these heifers than that we have kept them back to carry forward the Rosemere banner and that we feel every one of them is capable of doing just that.

GROUP VIII—THE COMING TWO YEAR OLD HEIFERS

THE heifers making up this group are the pick of our 1936 calf crop. The less desirable heifers of this age have all been sold privately. Group VIII is a wonderfully uniform lot—in fact they are typical of all Rosemere cattle in this respect. They are sired by such well known Rosemere sires as Eileenmere 61st, Queenmere 70th, Blackmere 97th, Blackcap Eileenmere 3d, and Ericmere 60th, and there is also one heifer by Prizemere 32d, and she is a full sister to the outstanding two year old show bull in the offering, Prizemere 387th. We feel that the young heifers in this group should be particularly desirable as foundation females. They represent the very best blood of the Rosemere Herd. We have never produced anything better in breeding and as to individuality they will speak for themselves when they are seen at sale time. As an example of the breeding back of these heifers let us point out Barbara of Rosemere 173d, a daughter of Barbara of Rosemere 49th, which was a full sister to Barbara of Rosemere 47th, the dam of the 1937 Chicago International Grand Champion Bull, Bandolier of Anoka 6th shown by Edwards Bros. Most of these heifers are pasture bred to the young Eileenmere 61st bull, Blackmere 195th, which we consider an outstanding breeding pro spect. He is from the same line of Blackbirds on the dam's side that has produced all of the great Blackbird show winners and producers in the Rosemere Herd.

GROUP IX—HEIFER CALVES

THIS group is made up of 1937 heifer calves. Although the last group to be cataloged, they are by no means the least desirable group in the sale. In fact, it is our honest opinion that they will average as high in quality as any group heretofore mentioned. In other words, at the same age of some of the other groups we feel that they will compare favorably even with what we consider our No. 1 group of cows in the sale, and they come naturally by their high quality. Most of them are sired by two of Rosemere's greatest present day sires, Eileenmere 61st and Queenmere 70th. This is a beautiful lot of heifers. A recent eastern visitor really liked them better than any other group in the offering. They are potential producers of champions.

Final Tribute to Prizemere 32d

After finishing compiling this catalog we felt that the outstanding achievements of this great Rosemere sire as revealed by this book, entitle him to the honor of being designated as Rosemere's King of Sires!

To the Recipient of this catalog . . .

I have just spent a week with Manager Otto V. Battles at the Yakima farms checking carefully the cattle that are listed on the preceding pages. Together we rode the pastures from end to end and met individually every animal listed in this catalog, making careful observations as we went. They made a deep and lasting impression upon me as Otto told the individual history of each animal as we came to it. I do not hesitate to recommend this offering as the greatest collection of Aberdeen-Angus breeding cattle ever assembled in one sale on this continent.

It was indeed a pleasure and a coveted privilege to see the great herd bulls in their respective roomy paddocks, as they appeared in their working togs, great, massive, thick-fleshed individuals—the very picture of Rosemere accomplishments. It was our first time to meet the great lot of matrons, stately and majestic (except, of course, those which had graced the show rings of this nation). These priceless gems are soon to be yours. The pictorial section of this catalog will tell you more at a glance than I could possibly convey on pages. I just want to say to the prospective future owners of the wonderful cattle that I am planning to be at the famous Rosemere Farms at Maquoketa, Iowa, at least one or two days before the sale opens for the exclusive purpose of being of service to any who may wish to go over them prior to the sale. If I can be of service to you in helping to make selections, do not hesitate to make that desire known. Dick Hahne and Gay Quammen, also of the Journal staff, will be on hand to assist—all three of us will be at your service.

I was delighted and impressed beyond expectation with the quality, type, superlative conformation, size, scale, condition and breed character revealed as these stately matrons and their sons and daughters fed in the various pastures. These cattle are being presented in just their regular breeding condition, ready to go anywhere and carry on successfully, just the condition in which Congdon & Battles have kept them during their life time—not pampered, but well cared for, and I believe that they will fit into their new homes satisfactorily and with distinction.

The thing that impresses me most of all is the very fact that there will be enough good cattle to go around. Perhaps there will be unexpected opportunities to procure bargains—there always are in events of even less magnitude—and for that reason I wish that every buyer might remain constantly at the ringside in order to take advantage of such an occasion should it arise. May we have the pleasure of helping show you these cattle?

Sincerely,

Fred Hahne
